CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

Wang Dongjin
Chairman

Dear shareholders,

In the year of 2023, global economy was faced with heightened downward pressure, and the average international oil prices dropped significantly. In spite of the challenging external environment, CNOOC Limited pursued high-quality development effectively, achieved record-high reserves and production, and maintained a high level of profitability. We remain committed to high-standard corporate governance and actively rewarding shareholders. Our efforts were well received by the capital market and our share prices recorded new highs. On behalf of the Board, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to all shareholders for your trust and support to the Company.

During the past year, we maintained a value-oriented approach and implementing effective measures, sustaining the growth momentum in oil and gas exploration. We made a total of 9 new discoveries, the net proved reserves reached the best level in history and the reserve life remained over 10 years for the seventh consecutive year. In China, we successfully discovered several oil and gas fields with proved in-place volume over 100 million tons respectively, and discovered China's first large deep-play coalbed methane field with proved in-place volume of over 100 billion cubic meters. Overseas, one more oil field with proved in-place volume over 100 million tons was discovered in Guyana. We have further strengthened natural gas exploration, so as to lay a solid foundation for the development of three trillion-cubic-meter gas areas in the South China Sea, Bohai, and onshore China.

We adhered to the integration of exploration and exploitation, continued to promote application of engineering standardization, and accelerated the pace of reserves-to-production conversion. We actively pushed forward the construction of major projects, and a number of key projects were successfully brought on stream during the year. Through fine waterflooding, oil stabilization and water-cut control, we maintained stable production from producing oilfields and further refined the development of oilfields. The net production of oil and gas reached 678 million BOE, hitting a record high for the fifth consecutive year. Bohai remained the largest crude oil production base in China.

CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

We advanced technological innovation, continuously enhanced our capability to tackle key technological challenges, and made significant progress in our digital transformation. China's first domestically-made subsea production system, which can operate in a water depth of 500 meters, has produced over a hundred million cubic meters of gas. "Shenhai-1" has become the world's first super-large deepwater platform with capabilities of remote control operation. Lihua oil field has realised remote production operation through typhoon automatic control mode for the first time.

We steadily implemented green development initiatives, facilitated the integration of new energy business with oil and gas operation, and gradually promoted the development of zero-carbon and negative-carbon sectors. During the year, we completed the construction of the Bohai oilfields onshore power project. The world's first semi-submersible "Double Hundred" deep-sea floating wind power project started operation. China's first offshore CCS demonstration project was officially launched. Our efforts to manage energy consumption and carbon intensity continued to improve through measures such as flare gas recycling, green electricity substitution and waste heat recovery.

By implementing quality and efficiency enhancement initiatives, we have witnessed steady improvement of our high quality development. The Company achieved an operating revenues of RMB416.6 billion and net profits attributable to equity shareholders of the Company of RMB123.8 billion, maintaining a strong profitability despite lower international oil prices. We have reinforced our research in key indicators and precisely implemented measures to reduce costs and enhance efficiency. Our all-in cost was US$28.83 per BOE, further strengthening our cost competitiveness. To share the accomplishment with our shareholders, the Board of Directors has recommended the payment of a final dividend of HK$0.66 per share (tax inclusive) for 2023.

While maintaining a robust development of our business, we have consistently adhered to high standards of safety management and our operations maintained safe and stable throughout the year. We uphold the concept of "harmonious development of economy, environment and society" and actively fulfill our social responsibilities. Our corporate image has been improving and brand value continues to grow.

Looking ahead to 2024, CNOOC Limited will focus on increasing reserves and production, targeting both oil and gas with a greater emphasis on gas exploration, so as to achieve steady growth. We will strengthen our research and innovation capabilities, promote digital and intelligent transformation to empower the development of our oil and gas business. Furthermore, we will reinforce our efforts to conserve energy and reduce carbon emissions, and actively improve the distribution of new energy and new business to drive green development. We will continuously enhance quality and efficiency, and tap the potential for cost reduction in order to continuously strengthen our value creation capability.

Headwinds are no stranger to sailors, and hardships are no stranger to pacesetters. In the year of 2024, we will accelerate the pace of building a world-class energy company and strive to create greater value for our shareholders.

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

EXPLORATION

In 2023, in searching for large and medium-sized oil and gas fields, we adopted an exploration strategy of targeting both oil and gas and weighting more on gas. We have been exploring new areas and new types while concentrating on large-scale discoveries and efficient reserves to consolidate the resource foundation of the Company. In China, we have steadily progressed deep-water/ultra deep-water and deep-play/ultra deep-play exploration, promoted the in-depth integration of exploration and development, and discovered multiple 100-million-ton oilfields and the first deep-play 100-billion-cubic-meter gas field of coalbed methane. Overseas, we actively expanded exploration into new areas. We made new progress in the mid-to-deep play exploration of the Stabroek block in Guyana, further enhancing the exploration potential of the block.

In 2023, the Company's reserve replacement ratio maintained at a high level of 180%. With net production continuously hitting record high, our reserve life remained above 10 years for seven consecutive years, providing a solid resource foundation for our future sustainable development.

In 2024, we will continue to target the discovery of mid-to-large sized oil and gas fields, further consolidating the foundation of reserves and production growth, and promote medium and long-term sustainable development through high-quality exploration. We will persist in targeting both oil and gas and weighting more on gas exploration. We will intensify exploration in Bohai, accelerate efforts in the South China Sea, expand exploration in the East China Sea, explore opportunities in Yellow Sea and strengthen overseas exploration and promote the exploration of unconventional resources. We will also continue to advance natural gas exploration in China, with a particular focus on the three trillion-cubic-meter gas zones in the South China Sea, Bohai, and onshore areas.

ENGINEERING CONSTRUCTION, DEVELOPMENT AND PRODUCTION

The Company has further accelerated the construction of production capacity, promoted the application of “New, Excellent and Faster” drilling and completion mode and engineering standardization. We tapped the potential and ensured the stable and growing production of producing oil and gas fields. At the same time, the Company has efficiently promoted the construction of new oil and gas fields, and a number of key projects have come on stream ahead of schedule. In 2023, the Company achieved a net oil and gas production of approximately 678 million BOE, exceeding the production target of 650 to 660 million BOE set at the beginning of the year, with a year-on-year growth of 8.7% and achieved a rapid production growth for several consecutive years, thereby further increasing oil and gas production.

In 2023, various new projects successfully commenced production during the year, including Bozhong 19-6 condensate gas field phase I development project, Lufeng 12-3 oilfield development project and Enping 18-6 oilfield development project in offshore China, as well as Payara project in Guyana and the Buzios5 project in Brazil. More than 40 projects were under construction throughout the year, and the development and construction of key projects progressed smoothly.

In 2023, the Company accelerated the construction of new oil fields, continued to maintain the steady and increased production in producing oil fields, refined production management and strengthened technological research capabilities. The main measures include:

Firstly, we have actively promoted the development level and ensured steady and increased production in producing oil and gas fields. The main measures include rolling exploration to increase reserves and solidify the reserve foundation, improving oil recovery through tapping reservoir potential. Fine water flooding, oil stabilization and water-cut control have achieved remarkable results, and the natural decline rate of offshore oil fields reached the best level in history. We also implemented fine management, optimized shutdown maintenance plans and steadily increased production efficiency.

Secondly, we have efficiently organized engineering project operations, strengthened the overall coordination of resources, accelerated the construction of new oil and gas fields and promoted the effective conversion of reserves to production. As a result, we were able to achieve new highs in production capacity construction, smoothly launch new projects, and advance the production of key projects with the goal of “shortening the project construction cycle, accelerating the construction of production capacity, and enhancing the overall development efficiency”.

Thirdly, we have accelerated the promotion and application of “New, Excellent and Faster” drilling and completions mode and engineering standardization, which enabled us to achieve remarkable results in improving the quality, speed and efficiency of engineering construction, development and production. We promoted the application of the new, excellent and faster mode to shorten the project development cycle, bring forward the contribution of production and improve the economic benefits of the project. We summarized the experience of fields development, shifted from individualization to standardization of engineering projects, and unified and optimized the design, procurement and construction of offshore platforms from the source, so as to promote the efficiency of the new project.

Fourthly, the driving role of technological innovation was given full play to effectively drive the production growth and efficiency enhancement of oil and gas fields. We accelerated the implementation of production capacity of heavy oil thermal recovery, promoted the steady growth of production from fractured wells in low-permeability reservoirs, which contributed more than one million tons of production. We made progress in the construction of smart oil and gas fields and oilfield typhoon production mode.

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

Looking ahead to 2024, we will actively promote the construction of key projects, focus on quality management and progress control of drilling and completion, and further improve production and efficiency. Meanwhile, we will continue to ensure steady and increased production in producing oil and gas fields, optimize adjustment well deployment and increase production per well. We will conduct solid and refined research on oil and gas reservoirs to reduce the natural decline rate, strictly control project costs and strengthen post-project evaluation management.

The Company has set a net production target of 700-720 million BOE for 2024. Various major new projects are scheduled to come on stream throughout the year, including Bozhong 19-2 oilfield development project, “Shenhai-1” phase II project, Huizhou 26-6 oilfield development project, Shenfu deep-play coalbed methane exploration and development demonstration project in China and overseas projects including Mero3 project in Brazil. In the upcoming three years, the scheduled commencement of production of various high-quality new projects in China and overseas will lay a solid foundation for the Company’s production growth.

OVERVIEW BY REGION

China

In China, we conduct oil and gas exploration and development primarily through independent operations and cooperation projects.

Independent operations: We have been increasing our reserves and production mainly through independent exploration and development. As of the end of 2023, approximately 85.7% of our net proved reserves and approximately 86.2% of our net production in China were from our self-operated oil and gas fields.

Cooperation projects: We cooperate with partners through product sharing contracts (“PSCs”) in oil and gas resources (including crude oil and natural gas) exploitations. China National Offshore Oil Corporation (“CNOOC Group”), our controlling shareholder, has the exclusive right to enter into PSCs with foreign contractors to cooperate in the exploration, development and production of oil and gas resources in offshore China where acreage is open to foreign cooperation. CNOOC Group has transferred to the Company all its rights and obligations under the existing and future PSCs (except those rights and obligations related to the management and supervision that should be implemented by a State Corporation).

Bohai

Bohai is the largest crude oil production site in China and also the most important crude oil producing area for the Company. The crude oil produced in this region is mainly heavy oil. The operational area in Bohai is mainly shallow water with a depth of approximately 10 to 30 meters. As of the end of 2023, the reserves and production in Bohai reached 1,968.4 million BOE and 599,847 BOE/day, respectively, representing approximately 29.0% of the Company’s total reserves and approximately 32.3% of its production.

With rich oil and gas resources, Bohai is one of the Company’s core areas for exploration and development. In 2023, the Company successfully made two discoveries in Bohai, namely Qinhuangdao 27-3 and Bozhong 26-2 North. In addition, the Company also successfully appraised 9 oil and gas bearing structures, including Qinhuangdao 27-3, Bozhong 26-6, Bozhong 19-2, Bozhong 34-1 West, Luda 16-3 South, Jinzhou 14-6, Longkou 25-1, Caofeidian 28-1 and Caofeidian 23-6.

In 2023, we successfully re-appraised Bozhong 26-6, adding over 40 million cubic meters of oil and gas proved in-place volume, with a total proved in-place volume exceeding 200 million cubic meters, and confirmed it the largest metamorphic buried hill oilfield in the world. Significant discoveries continued to be made in shallow strata exploration in Bohai, with Qinhuangdao 27-3 contributing new proved in-place volume of over 100 million tons.

Bohai is also an important source of growth for the Company’s natural gas reserves and production. Currently, Bohai has over 500 billion cubic meters of proved in-place volume of natural gas. In the future, we will focus on shallow water deep/ultra-deep play exploration and solidly push forward the exploration project for the trillion-cubic-meter gas area in Bohai.

In terms of development and production, Bozhong 28-2 South oilfield secondary adjustment development project, Bozhong 19-6 condensate gas field phase I development project and Penglai 19-3 oilfield 5/10 zone development project have all been put into production in 2023. Among them, Bozhong 19-6 condensate gas field phase I development project is the first 100 billion-cubic-meter condensate gas field in Bohai Bay to be put into production relying on the Bozhong-Kenli oilfields onshore power project, which will provide Beijing-Tianjin-Hebei and Bohai Rim regions with a more stable and reliable supply of clean energy and strongly promote the green and low-carbon development of the Company.

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

In 2023, the Company completed the construction of onshore power project for Bohai oilfields to promote the green and low-carbon development of oil and gas fields in Bohai. This is the world's largest onshore power application base for offshore oilfield with the highest voltage of AC power transmission, with a total capacity of 980 megawatts, covering 75% of the existing Bohai facilities, and expected to reduce carbon emission by 1 million tons per year.

In the future, Bohai will still be one of the main sources of production growth for the Company. In 2024, Bozhong 19-6 Gas Field 13-2 Block 5 Well Site Development Project, Suizhong 36-2 Oilfield 36-2 Block Development Project and Bozhong 19-2 Oilfield Development Project will be put into production.

Western South China Sea

Western South China Sea is one of the Company's important crude oil and natural gas production areas. The typical operating water depth in the region ranges from 40 to 1,500 meters. The crude oil produced here is mostly light or medium. As of the end of 2023, the reserves and production in Western South China Sea reached 861.9 million BOE and 221,573 BOE/day, respectively, representing approximately 12.7% of the Company's total reserves and approximately 11.9% of its production.

The Company made a new discovery in Western South China Sea, namely Wenchang 15-1 North, in 2023. 8 oil and gas bearing structures were successfully appraised, namely Wushi 16-5, Weizhou 6-3, Weizhou 11-6, Weizhou 11-10, Wenchang 19-3, Dongfang 11-2, Ledong 16-2 and Yacheng 13-10. The Company made breakthroughs in mid deep-play exploration in Songnan-baodao Sag, opening a new exploration frontier in this area.

SALES AND MARKETING

Sales of Crude Oil

The Company sells the crude oil produced in offshore China in its domestic market mainly through CNOOC International Trading Co., Ltd., its wholly-owned subsidiary. The Company sells the crude oil produced overseas in international and domestic markets mainly through CNOOC International Trading Co., Ltd. and CNOOC International Limited.

The Company's crude oil sales prices are mainly determined by reference to the prices of international benchmark crude oil of similar quality, with certain premiums or discounts subject to the prevailing market conditions. Although the prices are denominated in U.S. dollar, customers in China settle with Renminbi. The Company currently sells three types of crude oil in China, i.e., heavy crude oil, medium crude oil and light crude oil. The sale prices are benchmarked against Brent oil price. The Company's major customers in China are CNOOC Group, CNPC, Sinopec Group and some local private refineries. Overseas crude oil sold in international markets is benchmarked against the Brent, Dubai, Oman and WTI prices and regularly updated official oil prices of the host countries.

In 2023, the Company achieved crude and liquids sales volume of 514.5 million barrels, an increase of 7.5% year-on-year and average realised oil price was US$77.96 per barrel, representing a year-on-year decrease of approximately 19.3%, basically in line with international oil prices.

Sales of Natural Gas

The Company's natural gas sales prices are mainly determined through negotiation with customers. Generally, natural gas sales agreements are long-term contracts, and the contract terms normally include a price review mechanism. The Company's natural gas customers are primarily located in the southeast coastal areas of China, and the major customers include CNOOC Gas and Power Group, China BlueChemical Ltd, Hong Kong Castle Peak Power Company Limited, etc.

LNG produced from the NWS Project in Australia and the Tangguh LNG Project in Indonesia are under long-term supply contracts and are sold to various customers in the Asia-Pacific region, including the Dapeng LNG Terminal in Guangdong Province and the LNG terminal in Putian, Fujian Province in China.

In 2023, the Company increased its exploration and development efforts in offshore China, and the production and sales volume continued to increase, with natural gas sales volume reaching 807.4 bcf, representing a year-on-year increase of 11.2%. The Company's average realised natural gas price was US$7.98/mcf, representing a year-on-year decrease of approximately 7.0%, mainly because the impacts of the Russia-Ukraine conflicts on international natural gas prices has gradually diminished, leading to a relief of supply tensions and a subsequent return of gas prices to a reasonable level.

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

RESEARCH AND SCIENTIFIC DEVELOPMENT

In 2023, the Company vigorously implemented the scientific and technological innovation, with the annual research and development investment increasing by 4% year-on-year. The Company intensified scientific and technological research around the key technologies for oil and gas exploration and development, accelerated the efforts in digital transformation of fundamental management, and significantly improved independent technological innovation capability.

Deepen geological understanding to achieve exploration breakthroughs in various aspects

The Company carried out innovative research on key reservoir-forming conditions of buried hills in the Archean, and effectively guided the discovery of Bozhong 26-6, China's first integrated light oil field of over 100 million tons in recent 10 years in Bohai. Deepwater exploration research supported the discovery of large sized oil and gas reservoirs in Kaiping 18-1.

Enhance development capabilities to release production potential at a faster pace

In 2023, the Company innovated and achieved various technical achievements, including mobile heating injector for offshore heavy oil thermal recovery and low-permeable fracture. Luda 5-2 North oilfield, the first offshore ultra-extra-heavy oilfield developed by thermal recovery, was fully put into operation, with daily production of more than 1,100 tons of crude oil. The annual thermal recovery output from the oilfields in Bohai exceeded 850,000 tons. In the field of low permeability oilfield development, we have completed the largest scale low permeability facturing operation and successfully achieved oil production increase in Weizhou 12-2 oilfield.

Strengthen independent innovation to facilitate technology-driven development

As of the end of 2023, China's first 500-meter deep-water domestically developed subsea production system had been operating steadily for 15 months in southern block of Ledong 22-1 gas field, with a total production volume of over 100 million cubic meters of natural gas. The main body construction of Asia's first cylinder-type FPSO – "Haiyang Shiyou 122" floating production and storage device independently designed and constructed in China was completed, which fills numerous technology gaps in the domestic marine engineering industry and will effectively promote the development of deep-water oil and gas fields.

Accelerate digital transformation and support high-quality development

In 2023, Qinhuangdao 32-6 oil field phase II, the first offshore smart oil field in China, was successfully implemented and put into operation, with 90% of its core business achieving digital operation. "Shenhai-1" has become the world's first super-large deepwater Semi submersible production and storage oil platform with capability of remote control production, which is crucial to the full-scale construction of the ultra-deepwater smart gas field. Liuhua oilfield, Enping oilfield and Baiyun gas field activated the "Typhoon Production Mode" to remotely monitor and control the safety production of offshore oil and gas fields through the onshore control center in real time, which contributed more than RMB300 million.

LOW CARBON DEVELOPMENT

In 2023, CNOOC Limited accelerated green and low-carbon transformation, promoted the integrated development of new energy and offshore oil and gas production, and actively explored the construction of a safe, stable and efficient new energy system.

Remarkable results in green oil and gas production with great efforts in energy saving and carbon reduction

In 2023, the Bohai onshore power project, distributed in three regions of Hebei, Shandong, and Liaoning, was fully completed. This is the world's largest onshore power project of AC transmission at the highest voltage for offshore oilfields application base in offshore oilfields. The project covers 45 oil fields and 180 facilities, with a total scale of 980 megawatts, covering 75% of offshore facilities in Bohai, and is expected to have an annual carbon reduction capacity of 1 million tons.

The Company continued to increase its efforts in green electricity substitution, completing the substitution of 500 million kWh of green electricity throughout the year, and has reduced carbon emissions by over 440,000 tons. The Company has steadily promoted the recovery and utilization of flare gas, achieving full recovery and reuse of flare gas above 50,000 m³/day two years ahead of schedule, and established a key technical field for the recovery of flare gas in offshore oil and gas fields. We are actively building a low-carbon brand, and the Company's energy consumption and carbon intensity control continues to improve, with a number of units selected as national green factories.

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

Steady progress in key projects to help build a green industrial chain

We vigorously promoted the integrated development of new energy and offshore oil and gas production. China's first deep-sea floating wind power platform, "Haiyou Guanlan", was successfully connected to the Wenchang oilfields' grid, delivering green power to offshore oil and gas fields. Upon commencement of operation, the average annual power generation could reach 22 million kWh, saving nearly 10 million cubic meters of natural gas per year and reducing carbon dioxide emissions by 22,000 tons per year, contributing to the active exploration of China's wind power development from shallow waters to far-reaching waters.

The development of 600,000-kilowatt Hainan CZ7 Offshore Wind Power Demonstration Project Phase I, the Company's first large-scale offshore wind power demonstration project, and the 300,000-kilowatt offshore wind power project in Jinshan, Shanghai, which was developed with equity participation, is being pushed forward in an orderly manner. In addition, the onshore photovoltaic business is progressing steadily, and we have launched 10 photovoltaic construction projects in oil and gas terminals, seven of which have already been put into operation, and achieved terminal photovoltaic coverage rate of 70% by the end of 2023. The first onshore centralized photovoltaic project – the "Husbandry-Photovoltaic-Hybrid" project in Hezuo City, South Gansu, has been successfully connected to the grid for power generation, which has generated over 11 million kWh of green electricity as of the end of 2023.

Cultivating and promoting zero-carbon and low-carbon industries in a steady and orderly manner

We are steadily developing new CCS/CCUS business and doing research on CCS/CCUS carbon reduction technologies suitable for offshore oil and gas development. The Enping 15-1 oilfield CCS demonstration project, China's first offshore carbon dioxide sequestration in saline aquifer project, and the Ledong 15-1 gasfield CCS demonstration project, the first project using membrane separation and decarbonization technology of the Company, were formally put into operation. Bozhong 19-6/25-1 project, the first offshore CO₂ flooding and CCS project, has basically completed its program design, and the first offshore 10-million-tonne cluster demonstration project carried out in an orderly manner.

We organized the evaluation and commendation work in QHSE field to create a good atmosphere for safe production. We also guided our employees to continuously improve safety awareness and skills.

We paid great attention to the safety risks of overseas operations, and continued to increase our investment in manpower, material and financial resources, actively explored the innovative practice of overseas public safety management at different levels of system and mechanism, and constructed an overseas public safety management system to ensure the effectiveness of the overseas public safety management system, the deployment of emergency resources and the behaviors of personnel. We have achieved significant results in preventing major overseas public safety risks, ensuring the personal safety of expatriate employees and promoting the compliant, safe and stable operation of our overseas projects.

Fully protect the life and health of employees

We upheld the core value of “people orientation” and strictly complied with the Occupational Disease Prevention and Control Law of the People’s Republic of China and the relevant laws and regulations on occupational health in the countries and regions where we operate to improve the top-level design of health management. In accordance with the Law of the PRC on the Prevention and Control of Environmental Pollution by Solid Waste (《中華人民共和國固體廢物污染環境防治法》), the Measures for the Management of Hazardous Waste Transfer (《危險廢物轉移管理辦法》) and other relevant provisions, key pollutant discharging units temporarily stored domestic garbage, general industrial solid waste, hazardous waste and other waste, and then passed them to disposal entities with corresponding qualifications after sorting.

(2) Environmental Impact Assessment of Construction Projects and Other Administrative Licenses for Environmental Protection

During the reporting period, the key pollutant discharging units strictly implemented “three-simultaneous” system under which environmental protection facilities and main works are designed, constructed and put into operation at the same time. We carried out environmental impact assessment and environmental completion acceptance for construction projects in accordance with requirements. The key pollutant discharging units have applied for and possessed environmental protection administrative licenses such as Pollutant Discharge License and Radiation Safety License based on the actual operation situation, and have completed formalities such as registration of hazardous waste management plans and registration of pollutant discharge from stationary sources in accordance with the relevant regulations.

(3) Environmental Emergency Response Plans and Environmental Self-Monitoring Plans

During the reporting period, the key pollutant discharging units have formulated environmental emergency response plans and have completed the necessary filing in accordance with the relevant requirements of the Management Measures for Environmental Emergencies, formulated self-monitoring plans in accordance with the relevant requirements of Self-monitoring Technical Guide for Emission Units and the characteristics of the industry, and carried out self-monitoring activities in accordance with the requirements of the plans.

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

(4) Administrative Penalties Caused by Environmental Issues During the Reporting Period

During the reporting period, the key pollutant discharging units of the Company were not subject to any administrative penalties regarding environmental protection due to environmental issues.

During the reporting period, subsidiaries other than the key pollutant discharging units of the Company pushed forward environmental protection and fulfilled environmental protection responsibilities in accordance with the unified requirements of the Company, identified potential problems related to environmental protection in a timely manner, maintained environmental pollution control facilities and minimized the impact from production and operation activities on the environment. For details of the environmental administrative penalties imposed on other subsidiaries of the Company, please refer to the information published on the websites of the government's competent ecological and environmental authorities.

RISK FACTORS

Although we have established the risk management system to identify, analyze, evaluate and respond to risks, our business activities may subject to the following risks, which could have material effects on our strategies, operations, compliance and financial condition. We urge you to carefully consider the risks described below.

Macro economy and policy risk

Macro economy risk

The industry in which the Company operates is closely linked to the macro economy. The growth of the global economy and trade has further slowed down. Economic recovery varies widely among countries due to multiple factors such as geopolitical conflicts and tightening of global monetary policies. Geopolitics, trade frictions and other factors have exerted negative impact on the global flow of goods, people and capital, and posed unprecedented challenges to the global supply chain. Macro economy changes will affect the supply and downstream demand for oil and gas, which will adversely affect the Company’s performance.

Risk of changing international, political and economic factors

The international political and economic situation is complex and changeable. The Russia-Ukraine conflict, the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and the sanctions on Russia imposed by the U.S., Europe and Japan have accelerated the profound changes in the world landscape and triggered violent shocks in the international energy market. As many countries including the U.S. and Russia will hold general elections in 2024, some of the countries in which we operate may be exposed to unstable politics and economy. As a result, our financial condition and operating results could be adversely affected by associated international actions, domestic civil unrest and general strikes, political instability, war and acts of terrorism. Any changes in regime or social instability, or other political, economic or diplomatic changes, or changes in policies, laws, fiscal and tax regimes are not within our control. Our operations, existing assets or future investments may be materially and adversely affected by these changes as well as trade and economic sanctions due to deteriorated relations among different countries.

The Arctic LNG 2 LLC and its project in Russia, in which the company has a 10% interest, have been somewhat adversely affected by sanctions stemming from the Russia-Ukraine military conflict. In addition, other overseas projects of the Company are not affected by the Russia-Ukraine military conflict, and the production and operation situation is normal.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND INTERNAL CONTROL

Risk of industry policy changes

The ongoing oil and gas system reform in China may have certain impacts on the Company's business in China. For example, at present, China's foreign investment access policies no longer restrict foreign investment to participate in the oil and gas exploration and development business in China through joint venture and cooperation only. As at July 2023, the Ministry of Natural Resources published the Opinions of the Ministry of Natural Resources on Several Matters Concerning Promoting Reform of Mineral Resources Administration, which basically continues the original reforms relating to the assignment and withdrawal of mining rights released in 2019. In the future, the Company may face competition and challenges from a variety of competitors in the industry to obtain and retain exploration rights in oil and gas fields. In addition, with the continuous introduction of the latest electricity trading policies in China, the fluctuation of market-based power prices bring uncertainty to the Company's revenue from new energy projects.

Risk of climate change and environmental policy changes

With the coming into force of the Paris Agreement and the continuing growth of the public's awareness of climate change issues, the carbon emission policies of different countries are gradually enacted, China has also put forward the time table of "Carbon peak and Carbon neutrality". The acceleration of the energy transition process poses a challenge to the oil and gas industry. It is expected that the CO₂ emissions will increase as our production grows. Failing to find economic and publicly acceptable solutions to reduce carbon emissions from existing and newly-added projects will make it difficult to meet the current national requirements for setting emission reduction standards, strictly implementing the renewable energy proportion plan, levying high carbon taxes, and enacting strict regulatory bills and other relevant measures, which may result in additional costs and reputational damage, as well as higher operating costs for the Company in the event of intensified competition in the energy supply market.

Our offshore operating platforms, exploration and development activities and land-based terminal production activities will generate risks of waste gas, wastewater, solid wastes, noise and oil spillage. If they are not properly handled, they may fail to meet the standard of discharge or the disposal process is not in compliance, polluting the marine ecological environment, damaging our reputation and operations and increase the costs of restoring the ecological environment and compensation, and even expose us to lawsuits and penalties.

Market risk

Risk arising from volatility in oil and gas prices

Prices for crude oil, natural gas and oil products may fluctuate widely in response to relative changes in the supply and demand for crude oil and natural gas, market uncertainty and various other factors beyond our control, such as macroeconomic conditions, oil policies of OPEC and major oil exporting countries, geopolitics, economic conditions and actions related to major oil-producing countries, the prices and accessibility of other energy sources, natural disasters, weather conditions and major global public health emergencies, etc.

Volatility in oil and gas prices may impact our business, cash flows and profits fluctuate. Oil and gas prices are volatile. A downward trend in oil and gas prices which lasts for a long period may adversely affect our business, revenue and profits, and may also result in write-off of higher cost reserves and other assets, reduction in the amount of oil and natural gas we can produce economically and termination of existing contracts that have become uneconomic. The prolonged slump in oil and gas prices may also impact our long-term investment strategies.

Risk arising from increasing market competition

The new round of scientific and technological revolution and industrial transformation has had a profound impact on the development of the energy industry. We compete in the PRC and other countries in which we operate with national oil companies, major integrated oil and gas companies and various other independent oil and gas companies for access to oil and gas resources, products, alternative energy, customers, capital financing, technology and equipment, talents and business opportunities. Competition may result in shortage of these resources or over-supply of oil and gas, which could increase our cost or reduce our earnings, and adversely impact our business, financial condition and results of operations.

At the same time, environmental protection supervision in energy sector is becoming increasingly strict, and the world is actively promoting the transition and transformation to low-carbon and clean energy. The new energy industry will develop rapidly. The green and low-carbon transformation may lead to increasing demand for alternative energy, which in turn will lead to increasing competition in the energy supply market, which may adversely affect the operations and performance of the Company.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND INTERNAL CONTROL

Business risk

HSSE risk

Given the geographical area, operational diversity and technical complexity of our operations every aspect of our daily operations exposes us to potential health, safety, security and environment (HSSE) risk. Part of our operations are located in environmentally sensitive regions or politically unstable regions, and part of our business are operated in offshore environment, especially in new deep water area such as Mexico, etc. Our operations expose us and the communities in which we operate to a number of risks, including probable major safety incidents, and natural disasters, social unrest, personal health and safety mistakes and potential consequences from unforeseeable external destruction, for instance, typhoons, sea ice, etc. may damage platform structure, and submarine pipelines may lead to oil spills and gas leaks due to damage from external force. If a major HSSE risk materialises, it could result in casualties, environmental damage, disruption to business activities and material impact on our reputation, exclusion from bidding or eventually loss of our licence to operate. At the same time, regulatory regimes for HSSE in the countries in which we operate may become more stringent over time. In the future, we may incur significant costs, such as fines, penalties, clean-up costs and third-party claims, as a result of breach of laws and regulations relating to HSSE matter.

Our oil and gas transportation involves marine, land and pipeline transportation, which are subject to hazards such as capsizing, collision, acts of piracy and damage or loss from severe weather conditions, explosions and oil and gas spills and leakages. These hazards could result in serious personal injury or loss of human life, significant damage to property and equipment, environmental pollution, operating loss, risk of financial loss and reputational harm. We may not be able to arrange insurance coverage for all of these risk and uninsured losses and liabilities arising from these hazards may have a material and adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Risk of deviation between forward-looking judgments of oil and gas prices and the actuality

The Company, as an oil and gas exploration and development enterprise, will makes forward-looking judgments on oil and gas prices when evaluating oil and gas projects or related business opportunities, while economic returns of projects normally depend to some extent on the Company's robustness and accuracy of price predictions. The Company will review the oil and natural gas price predictions on a periodic basis. Although we believe our current forward-looking predictions on long-term price range are prudent, if such predictions are deviated in the future, it could have a material and adverse effect on us.

Risk that the anticipated benefits from mergers and acquisitions and disposals may not be realized

Part of the Company's oil and gas assets are acquired through mergers and acquisitions. In mergers and acquisitions practice, mergers and acquisitions may not succeed due to various reasons, such as difficulties in integrating activities and realizing synergies, outcomes differing from key assumptions, host countries' governments reacting or responding in a different manner from that envisaged, or liabilities and costs being underestimated. Any of these reasons would reduce our ability to realize the anticipated benefits. We may not be able to successfully dispose of non-core assets at acceptable prices, resulting in increased pressure on our cash position. In the case of asset disposals, we may be held liable for past acts, or failures to act or perform obligations, we may also be subject to liabilities if a purchaser fails to fulfill its commitments. These risks may result in an increase in our costs and inability to achieve our business goals.

Risk of limited control over our investments in joint ventures and our joint operation with partners

Due to the special nature of the oil and gas industry, a portion of our operations are conducted in the form of partnerships or in joint operation, we may have limited capability to influence and control their operation or future development. Our limited ability to influence and control the operation or future development of such joint ventures could materially and adversely affect the realization of our target returns on capital investment and lead to unexpected future costs.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND INTERNAL CONTROL

The risk of high concentration of customers

During the reporting period, sales to major customers of the Company accounted for a relatively high proportion. If any of our major customers reduces its crude oil or natural gas purchases from us significantly, and the Company fails to find alternative customers in time, our results would be adversely affected.

The risk of high supplier concentration

During the reporting period, procurement from the Company's major suppliers accounted for a relatively high proportion. The Company, as an exploration, development and production of oil and gas enterprise, is principally engaged in the exploration and development with services procurement as its main procurement. We maintain a good working relationship with our major suppliers, and actively explore new suppliers to ensure supply adequacy and foster competition. However, if the major suppliers fail to continue to provide services to the Company due to accidental factors, and the Company fails to find suitable alternative suppliers, its operating activities may be disrupted and the performance would be adversely affected.

Risk from unrealizable undeveloped reserves

By the end of 2023, approximately 47.5% of our proved reserves were undeveloped. There are various risk in developing reserves, mainly including construction, operational, geophysical, geological and regulatory risk. Failure to develop these reserves in a timely and cost-effective manner could adversely affect the Company's results. The reliability of reserve estimates depends on a number of factors, including the quality and quantity of technical and economic data, the market prices of our oil and gas products, the production dynamics of oil reservoirs, extensive engineering judgments, comprehensive judgement of engineers and the fiscal and tax regimes in the countries where we have operations or assets. The factors, assumptions and variables involved in estimating reserves are beyond our control and may be proved to be incorrect over time. That may result in volatility of our initial reserve data.

Technology development and deployment risk

Technology and innovation are vital for us to enhance the Company's competitiveness in a competitive environment and exploration and development challenges. For example, we strive to rely on technologies and innovations to realize our strategy and enhance our competitiveness and operation capacity in the development of unconventional oil and gas resources, including heavy oil, oil sands, shale oil and gas and coalbed methane, deep water exploration and development, and offshore enhanced oil recovery. If our core technology reserves are insufficient, it may have a negative impact on the Company's reserves and production targets and cost control targets.

Network security and IT infrastructure damage risk

Malicious attacks on our cyber system, negligence in the management of our cyber security and IT system and other factors may cause damage or breakdown to our IT infrastructure, which may disrupt our operations, result in loss or misuse of data or sensitive information, cause injuries, environmental harm or damages in assets, violate laws or regulations and result in potential legal liability. These actions could result in significant increase in costs or damage to our reputation.

Risks to business and operations in Canada

Transportation and export infrastructure in Canada is limited, and without the construction of new transportation and export infrastructure, realization of our full oil and natural gas production capability may be affected. In addition, we may be required to sell our products into the North American markets at lower prices than in other (international) markets, which could materially and adversely affect our financial performance.

Furthermore, First Nations in Canada have aboriginal land claims, in a substantial portion of western Canada. As a result, negotiations with First Nations prior to commencing future projects are prudent. Failure to successfully negotiate with affected First Nations may result in timing uncertainties or delays of future development activities.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND INTERNAL CONTROL

Financial risk

Exchange rate risk

The Company's oil and gas sales are substantially denominated in Renminbi and U.S. dollars. The depreciation of Renminbi against U.S. dollar may have double effects. The appreciation of U.S. dollar against Renminbi may increase the Company's revenue from the sales of oil and gas, but may increase our import costs for equipment and raw materials. The Company may have exchange rate risk in the case of inconsistency between revenue and cost scale. When there may be a capital gap in overseas capital expenditure, the Company needs to remit overseas payment by converting domestic RMB into USD, and the exchange rate fluctuation of RMB against USD brings certain exchange rate risks.

The risk of foreign exchange control

Certain restrictions on dividend distribution imposed by the laws of the countries in which we operate may adversely and materially affect our cash flows. For instance, subsidiaries established in countries and regions with foreign exchange control to remit funds overseas shall satisfy the regulatory requirements of local laws and regulations, and face the risk of policy changes at any time, which may cause the Company' failure to recover the cash income of subsidiaries in a timely manner.

Risk of related party transactions

We regularly enter into connected transactions with CNOOC Group and its affiliates. Certain connected transactions require a review by the regulatory authorities of the place where the shares are listed and are subject to prior approvals by our independent shareholders. If these transactions are not approved, the Company may not be able to proceed with these transactions as planned.

Management risk

Risk caused by the actual controller's influence on the Company

By the end of 2023, CNOOC Group directly and indirectly owns or controls approximately 62.04% of the issued shares (percentage in the total shares of both Hong Kong shares and A shares). As a result, CNOOC Group can have an impact on the election of our Board members, our dividend payments and other decisions. Under current PRC laws, CNOOC Group has the exclusive right to enter into PSCs with foreign enterprises for petroleum resources exploitation in offshore China. Although CNOOC Group has undertaken to transfer all of its rights and obligations (except for those relating to administrative functions as a state-owned company) under any new PSCs that it enters into to us (save for certain exceptions), our strategies, results of operations and financial position may be adversely affected in the event CNOOC Group takes actions that favor its own interests over ours.

Legal risks

Risk of violating anti-corruption, fraud, money laundering and corporate governance and other laws and regulations

Laws and regulations of the host countries or regions in which we operate, such as laws on anti-corruption, anti-fraud, anti-money laundering and corporate governance, are constantly changing and becoming more comprehensive. If the Company, our directors, executives or employees fail to comply with any of such laws and regulations, it may expose us to prosecution or punishment, damage to our reputation and image, and our ability to obtain new resources, and it may even expose us to civil or criminal liabilities.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND INTERNAL CONTROL

Risk of violating laws and regulations related to data security

Laws and regulations related to privacy and data protection are generally becoming more stringent. Some countries and jurisdictions where we operate in or have access to data have data security, data privacy or data protection laws and regulations, such as Personal Information Protection Law of the People's Republic of China, the European Union General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance (Chapter 486 of the Laws of Hong Kong). As a company with operations in various countries and regions, we are subject to privacy and data security laws in numerous jurisdictions as a result of having access to and processing confidential, personal or sensitive data in the course of our business. Therefore, compliance with the various data privacy regulations around the world may require significant expenditures. In addition, failure to comply with current and future laws and regulations could result in government enforcement actions (including the imposition of significant penalties), criminal and civil liability for us and our officers and directors, private litigation and/or adverse publicity that negatively affects our business.

The risk of sanctions

Different levels of the U.S. government – federal, state or local government may impose economic sanctions of varying severity against certain countries or regions and their residents or designated governments, individuals, and entities. It is impossible to predict whether the business of the Company or its affiliates, the countries/regions where the business is conducted or its partners will be affected by the U.S. sanctions regime in the future due to changes in the U.S. sanctions regime. If this happens, the Company may not be able to continue to carry out relevant business, or it may not be able to continue to carry out business in the affected countries or regions or with the affected partners, thus affecting investors' perception of the Company and investment in the Company, and harming the Company's opportunity or ability to obtain new business.

Overall risk response measures:

The company strives to build a risk management system matching the world-class energy companies. We will make overall management of major risks, respond to them at different levels, and strive to identify, prevent, handle and report them in a timely manner. Carry out risk monitoring and early warning in important business areas, and conduct dynamic research and judgment and disposal. A whole-process risk management mechanism of "pre-prevention, in-process control and post-evaluation" has been established.

Continue to improve the risk management-oriented internal control system. Focus on the modernization of corporate governance system and governance capacity, strengthen the construction of compliance system, and ensure that all risks are effectively addressed.

The company integrates environmental, social and governance (ESG) risk management into normal risk management, and includes at least six ESG risks, including climate change, emissions and waste, renewable energy, supply chain, privacy and data security, and controversial development, into risk sources of major risks of the company, and regularly evaluates and develops corresponding countermeasures. Taking HSSE risk as an example, we will further strengthen the implementation of production safety responsibilities, strengthen the inspection and special improvement of the system, focus on well control and contractor safety management in the production process, and strive to achieve intrinsic safety. As required by the Rules Governing the Listing of Securities on The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited (the "Listing Rules of Stock Exchange"), more ESG risk identification and response can be found in the Company's Environmental, Social and Governance Report.

Principle: "There are two key aspects of the management of every issuer – the management of the board and the day-to-day management of business. - The Chairman ensures all Directors are properly briefed on issues arising at Board meetings and is responsible for ensuring that Directors receive, in a timely manner, adequate information, which must be accurate, clear, complete and reliable.
- One of the important roles of the Chairman is to provide leadership for the Board. - The Board is the ultimate decision-making body of the Company, other than those matters reserved to shareholders of the Company. The Board oversees and provides strategic guidance to senior management in order to enhance the long-term value of the Company for its shareholders. The Board delegates its management and administration functions to management, makes the Board Authorization Management Measures and a list of relevant authorizations, and gives clear directions as to the powers of management, in particular, with respect to the circumstances where management should report back and obtain prior approval from the Board before making decisions or entering into any commitments on the Company's behalf.

MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The following discussion and analysis should be read along with the Chairman's Statement and the Business Overview sections, as well as the Company and its subsidiaries' audited financial statements and the related notes.

DEVELOPMENT STRATEGY

As the largest offshore crude oil and natural gas producer in China and one of the largest independent oil and gas exploration and production companies in the world, we mainly engage in the exploration, development, production and sales of crude oil and natural gas. The Company's development strategy mainly covers the following three aspects.

Focus on reserves and production growth

As an upstream company specialising in the exploration, development, production and sale of oil and natural gas, the Company focuses on the continuous increase of reserves and production, which is regarded as the cornerstone of development. The Company keeps its focus on profitability, and expands reserves and production through exploration, development, production and value-driven acquisitions. In terms of exploration, the Company will adhere to the strategy of stabilising oil and increasing gas, and weighting more on gas to stabilise the exploration in Bohai, accelerate exploration in the South China Sea, expand exploration in the East China Sea, explore in the Yellow Sea, strengthen overseas exploration and promote unconventional exploration. In terms of development and production, to achieve profitable production growth, the Company actively promotes the construction of key projects and maintains a stable and increasing production in producing oil and gas fields.

Develop natural gas business

The Company implements the low-carbon development concept and expands the natural gas business actively. While solidly promoting offshore gas exploration and development, the Company has increased its efforts in onshore unconventional gas exploration and development. The Company will build South China Sea trillion-cubic-meters-level gas fields with the support of "Shenhai-1", the first proprietary deep-water large-scale integrated natural gas field in the South China; develop the trillion-cubic-meters-level gas fields in Bohai Sea centered on the Bozhong 19-6 large condensate gas field; and develop its onshore trillion-cubic-meters-level gas fields by CUCBM as a platform. By 2025, it is expected that the percentage of natural gas in the Company's gross output will be further improved.

Maintain prudent financial policies

The Company upholds our prudent financial policies. Thanks to years of sustained efforts to increase reserves and production and improve quality and efficiency, the Company's profitability continued to increase. The Company also put more emphasis on to cash flow management and maintains a healthy financial position. In 2023, the Company's free cash flow was RMB88.9 billion and the gearing ratio was 15.2% as at the end of the year. In the future, the Company will consider cost control as one of the key indicators in the performance appraisal and evaluation system, and will continue to control costs in order to further consolidate its competitive cost structure.

CORE COMPETITIVENESS

Abundant oil and gas resources with leading production growth capacity in the industry

The Company has abundant resources. As of the end of 2023, the Company had net proved reserves of approximately 6.78 billion BOE. In line with its commitment to both immediate priorities and long-term objectives, the Company steadily advances the growth of zero-carbon and carbon-negative industries.

2023 OVERVIEW

In 2023, geopolitical conflicts persisted and global economic growth momentum was insufficient. The performance of developed economies is divergent, with the US economy remaining resilient and European growth weak; The overall performance of emerging economies was stable. China's economy continued to recover, with a year-on-year increase of 5.2%. According to statistics from the IMF, the global economic growth rate was 3.1%. Influenced by factors such as economic growth expectations, market supply and demand, financial markets, and geopolitical issues, international oil prices experienced volatility and a downward trend in the first half of the year, followed by a rise and subsequent decline in the second half of the year. In 2023, the average price of Brent crude oil was US$82.2 per barrel, representing a decrease of approximately 17.0% year over year.

In 2023, the oil and gas industry in China continued its high-quality development. Oil and gas producers in China consistently increased their efforts in exploration and development. Crude oil production witnessed continuous growth for six consecutive years, while natural gas production growth surpassed 10 billion cubic meters for the seventh consecutive year. These achievements have provided a solid foundation for social and economic development.

Facing a complex external environment, we remained steadfast in increasing reserves and production. Both proved reserves and net production have reached new highs. | Used in investing activities | (78,095) | (98,473) | 20,378 | (20.7) |
| Used in financing activities | (84,228) | (64,962) | (19,266) | 29.7 |

Net cash inflows from operating activities

The net cash flows from operating activities increased by 2.0% to RMB209,743 million in 2023 from RMB205,574 million in 2022, primarily attributable to the Company's ongoing efforts in profitable growth of reserves and production.

In 2023, our capital expenditure payment increased by 48.5% to RMB120,875 million from RMB81,373 million in 2022. Our development expenditures in 2023 were primarily related to the oil and gas fields development projects in offshore China, as well as projects in Guyana and Brazil, and the expenditure incurred for improving recovery factors of the oil and gas fields in producing.

In addition, our cash used in investing activities was also attributable to the purchase of corporate wealth management products and structured deposits of RMB44,641 million this year. At the end of 2023, our total interest-bearing debt was RMB120,177 million, compared to RMB134,396 million at the end of 2022. The decrease in debt in 2023 was primarily attributable to the repayment of bonds and changes in the exchange rate between the Renminbi and U.S. dollar in this year. Our gearing ratio, which is defined as interest-bearing debts divided by the sum of interest-bearing debts plus equity, was 15.2%, a significant decrease from 18.3% in 2022, mainly due to the repayment of bonds and the increase in the owner's equity in 2023.

OUTLOOK FOR 2024

Looking ahead to 2024, despite the negative impact of geopolitical uncertainties, the global economic growth is expected to maintain muted growth, with a gradual decline in inflation levels and the lower risk of an economic hard landing. As China's economy remains on a long-term upward trend, China will still be the largest driver of global growth.

Oil and gas will continue to play a significant part in the structure of the world's energy demand for a long time. The ongoing recovery and positive trajectory of China's economy supports the demand for oil and gas. The offshore oil and gas serves as a significant growth driver for oil and gas production in China, offering substantial opportunities for the development of the Company.

In 2024, we will insist on increasing oil and gas reserves and production and promoting independent innovation in science and technology. Moreover, we will push forward the green transformation, implement quality and efficiency improvement actions and further enhance our value creation capacity to bring greater returns to our shareholders. For the full year, capital expenditure is expected to be RMB125-135 billion, production is targeted at 700-720 million BOE, and reserve replacement ratio will be no less than 130%. At the same time, the Company will maintain a sound health, safety and environmental performance.

To the shareholders of CNOOC Limited

(Incorporated in Hong Kong with limited liability)

OPINION

We have audited the consolidated financial statements of CNOOC Limited (the “Company”) and its subsidiaries (the “Group”) set out on pages 102 to 166, which comprise the consolidated statement of financial position as at 31 December 2023, and the consolidated statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income, the consolidated statement of changes in equity and the consolidated statement of cash flows for the year then ended, and notes to the consolidated financial statements, including material accounting policy information.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements give a true and fair view of the consolidated financial position of the Group as at 31 December 2023, and of its consolidated financial performance and its consolidated cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (“IFRSs”) issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (“IASB”) and Hong Kong Financial Reporting Standards (“HKFRSs”) issued by the Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants (“HKICPA”) and have been properly prepared in compliance with the Hong Kong Companies Ordinance.

BASIS FOR OPINION

We conducted our audit in accordance with Hong Kong Standards on Auditing (“HKSA”) issued by the HKICPA. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the consolidated financial statements section of our report. We are independent of the Group in accordance with the HKICPA's Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (the “Code”), and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with the Code. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

KEY AUDIT MATTERS

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgement, were of most significance in our audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the consolidated financial statements as a whole, and in forming our opinion thereon, and we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters. For each matter below, our description of how our audit addressed the matter is provided in that context.

We have fulfilled the responsibilities described in the Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the consolidated financial statements section of our report, including in relation to these matters. Accordingly, our audit included the performance of procedures designed to respond to our assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements. The results of our audit procedures, including the procedures performed to address the matters below, provide the basis for our audit opinion on the accompanying consolidated financial statements.

Key audit matter

The estimation of oil and gas reserves

At 31 December 2023, the carrying amount of the Group's oil and gas properties was RMB584,309 million, and depreciation, depletion and amortisation expense was RMB66,581 million for the year ended 31 December 2023. Oil and gas properties are depreciated on a unit-of-production basis at a rate calculated by reference to the proved reserves. Commercial reserves are determined using estimates of oil in place, future oil price and recovery factors. The level of estimated commercial reserves is also a key determinant in assessing whether the carrying value of any of the Group's oil and gas properties has been impaired. Relevant disclosures are included in Note 3 and Note 13 to the consolidated financial statements.

Management made significant judgements when assessing quantities of reserves. Hence, we consider the estimation of oil and gas reserves as a key audit matter.

How our audit addressed the key audit matter

We obtained an understanding, evaluated the design and tested the operating effectiveness of internal controls that address the risks of material misstatement relating to the reserve estimation process.

We evaluated the competency and objectivity of the Group's internal and external reserve specialists. We evaluated whether the methodology adopted by the Group's internal and external reserve specialists to estimate oil and gas reserves and selection of related estimates were consistent with the recognised industry standards.

We compared the Group's oil and gas reserves volumes at 31 December 2023 to that at 31 December 2022, and performed corroborative inquiries of the reserve specialists and the management on the reasons for any significant changes.

We tested whether the updated estimation of oil and gas reserves was included appropriately in the Group's consideration in oil and gas properties' impairment testing and depreciation, depletion and amortisation charges in accordance with the Group's accounting policy.

We also assessed the adequacy of the Group's disclosures included in Note 3 and Note 13 to the consolidated financial statements regarding the estimation of oil and gas reserves.

OTHER INFORMATION INCLUDED IN THE ANNUAL REPORT

The directors of the Company are responsible for the other information. The other information comprises the information included in the Annual Report, other than the consolidated financial statements and our auditor's report thereon.

Our opinion on the consolidated financial statements does not cover the other information and we do not express any form of assurance conclusion thereon.

In connection with our audit of the consolidated financial statements, our responsibility is to read the other information and, in doing so, consider whether the other information is materially inconsistent with the consolidated financial statements or our knowledge obtained in the audit or otherwise appears to be materially misstated. If, based on the work we have performed, we conclude that there is a material misstatement of this other information, we are required to report that fact. We have nothing to report in this regard.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE DIRECTORS FOR THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The directors of the Company are responsible for the preparation of the consolidated financial statements that give a true and fair view in accordance with IFRSs issued by the IASB, HKFRSs issued by the HKICPA and the Hong Kong Companies Ordinance, and for such internal control as the directors determine is necessary to enable the preparation of consolidated financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, the directors of the Company are responsible for assessing the Group's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the directors of the Company either intend to liquidate the Group or to cease operations or have no realistic alternative but to do so.

The directors of the Company are assisted by the Audit Committee in discharging their responsibilities for overseeing the Group's financial reporting process.

AUDITOR'S RESPONSIBILITIES FOR THE AUDIT OF THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Our report is made solely to you, as a body, in accordance with section 405 of the Hong Kong Companies Ordinance, and for no other purpose. We do not assume responsibility towards or accept liability to any other person for the contents of this report.

Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with HKSAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these consolidated financial statements.

Independent Auditor's Report

As part of an audit in accordance with HKSAAs, we exercise professional judgement and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal control.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the directors.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of the directors' use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Group's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the consolidated financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the consolidated financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
- Obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Group to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision and performance of the group audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with the Audit Committee regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide the Audit Committee with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, actions taken to eliminate threats or safeguards applied.

From the matters communicated with the Audit Committee, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditor's report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.

The engagement partner on the audit resulting in this independent auditor's report is Cheong Ming Yik.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

1. CORPORATE INFORMATION

CNOOC Limited (the “Company”) was incorporated in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (“Hong Kong”) of the People’s Republic of China (the “PRC”) on 20 August 1999 to hold the interests in certain entities thereby creating a group comprising the Company and its subsidiaries. During the year, the Company and its subsidiaries were principally engaged in the exploration, development, production and sale of crude oil and natural gas.

The registered office address of the Company is 65/F, Bank of China Tower, 1 Garden Road, Hong Kong.

In the opinion of the directors of the Company (the “Directors”), the ultimate holding company of the Company is China National Offshore Oil Corporation (“CNOOC Group”), a company established in the PRC.

2.1 STATEMENT OF COMPLIANCE

These financial statements have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (“IFRSs”) issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (the “IASB”), Hong Kong Financial Reporting Standards (“HKFRSs”) issued by the Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants (the “HKICPA”), the Rules Governing the Listing of Securities on The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited (the “Listing Rules of Stock Exchange”) and the Hong Kong Companies Ordinance (Cap. 622 of the Laws of Hong Kong). A summary of the material accounting policies adopted by the Company and its subsidiaries is set out below.

2.2 CHANGES IN ACCOUNTING POLICIES AND DISCLOSURES

The IASB has issued a number of new and amendments to IFRSs that are first effective for the current accounting year commencing 1 January 2023 or later but available for early adoption. The equivalent new and amendments to HKFRSs consequently issued by the HKICPA have the same effective dates as those issued by the IASB and are in all material aspects identical to the pronouncements issued by the IASB.

The accounting policies adopted are consistent with those of the year ended 31 December 2022, except for the first time adoption of the new and amendments to IFRSs/HKFRSs effective for and relevant to the Company and its subsidiaries’ financial year beginning on 1 January 2023 as follows:

|--|---|
| Amendments to IAS 1/HKAS 1 and IFRS/HKFRS Practice Statement 2 | Disclosure of Accounting Policies |
| Amendments to IAS 8/HKAS 8 | Definition of Accounting Estimates |
| Amendments to IAS 12/HKAS 12 | Deferred Tax related to Assets and Liabilities arising from a Single Transaction |
| Amendments to IAS 12/HKAS 12 | International Tax Reform – Pillar Two Model Rules |

The application of Amendments to IAS 12/HKAS 12 Deferred Tax related to Assets and Liabilities arising from a Single Transaction, did not have any impact on the overall deferred tax balances presented in the consolidated statement of financial position as the related deferred tax balances qualified for offsetting under IAS 12/HKAS 12. Upon the application of the amendments, the Company and its subsidiaries determined the temporary differences arising from lease and dismantlement obligations, which have been reflected in the reconciliation disclosed in note 10(i) to the consolidated financial statements. Except for the above, the application of the new and amendments to IFRSs/HKFRSs in the current year has had no material impact on the accounting policies, the disclosures or the amounts recognised in the consolidated financial statements of the Company and its subsidiaries.

3. MATERIAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of preparation

These consolidated financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention, except for as disclosed in the accounting policies notes hereafter. These consolidated financial statements are presented in Renminbi (“RMB”) and all values are rounded to the nearest million except when otherwise indicated.

Basis of consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the financial statements of the Company and its subsidiaries for the year ended 31 December 2023.

The results of subsidiaries are consolidated from the date of acquisition, being the date on which the Company or its subsidiaries obtain control, and continue to be consolidated until the date that such control ceases. The financial statements of the subsidiaries are prepared for the same reporting period as the parent company, using consistent accounting policies.

The results of subsidiaries are included in the Company’s statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income to the extent of dividends received and receivable. The Company’s interests in subsidiaries are stated at cost less any impairment losses.

All intra-group balances, income and expenses, unrealised gains and losses and dividends resulting from intra-group transactions are eliminated in full.

Business combinations or asset acquisitions

Optional concentration test

The Company and its subsidiaries can elect to apply an optional concentration test, on a transaction-by-transaction basis, that permits a simplified assessment of whether an acquired set of activities and assets is not a business. The concentration test is met if substantially all of the fair value of the gross assets acquired is concentrated in a single identifiable asset or group of similar identifiable assets. The gross assets under assessment exclude cash and cash equivalents, deferred tax assets, and goodwill resulting from the effects of deferred tax liabilities. If the concentration test is met, the set of activities and assets is determined not to be a business and no further assessment is needed.

Asset acquisitions

When the Company or its subsidiaries acquire a group of assets and liabilities that do not constitute a business, the Company or its subsidiaries identify and recognise the individual identifiable assets acquired and liabilities assumed by allocating the purchase price first to financial assets/financial liabilities at the respective fair values, the remaining balance of the purchase price is then allocated to the other identifiable assets and liabilities on the basis of their relative fair values at the date of purchase. Such a transaction does not give rise to goodwill or bargain purchase gain.

Business combinations

Business combinations, other than business combinations under common control, are accounted for using the acquisition method. The consideration transferred is measured at fair value which is calculated as the sum of the acquisition-date fair values of the assets transferred by the Company or its subsidiaries, liabilities assumed by the Company or its subsidiaries from the former owners of the acquiree and the equity interests issued by the Company or its subsidiaries in exchange for control of the acquiree. For each business combination, the Company or its subsidiaries elect whether it measures the non-controlling interests in the acquiree either at fair value or at the proportionate share of the acquiree’s identifiable net assets. Acquisition-related costs are recognised in profit or loss as incurred.

If the business combination is achieved in stages, the Company or its subsidiaries’ previously held equity interest in the acquiree is remeasured to fair value at the acquisition date through profit or loss or other comprehensive income, as appropriate.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

31 December 2023

3. MATERIAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

Any contingent consideration to be transferred by the acquirer is recognised at fair value at the acquisition date. Contingent consideration that is classified as equity is not remeasured at subsequent reporting dates and its subsequent settlement is accounted for within equity. Contingent consideration that is classified as an asset or a liability is remeasured to fair value at subsequent reporting dates, with the corresponding gain or loss being recognised in profit or loss.

Goodwill is initially measured at cost, being the excess of the aggregate of the purchase consideration, the amount recognised for non-controlling interests and any fair value of the Company or its subsidiaries' previously held equity interests in the acquiree over the identifiable net assets acquired and liabilities assumed. If the sum of this consideration and other items is lower than the fair value of the net assets of the business acquired, the difference is recognised in profit or loss as a gain on bargain purchase.

After initial recognition, goodwill is measured at cost less any accumulated impairment losses. Goodwill is tested for impairment annually or more frequently if events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying value may be impaired. For goodwill arising on an acquisition in a reporting period, the cash-generating unit (or group of cash-generating units) to which goodwill has been allocated is tested for impairment before the end of that reporting period.

For the purposes of impairment testing, goodwill is allocated to each of the Company and its subsidiaries' cash-generating units (or group of cash-generating units) that is expected to benefit from the synergies of the combination, which represent the lowest level at which the goodwill is monitored for internal management purposes and not larger than an operating segment.

Impairment is determined by assessing the recoverable amount of the exploration and production ("E&P") segment, using value in use, to which the goodwill relates. Where the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit (or group of cash-generating units) is less than the carrying amount, an impairment loss on goodwill is recognised. An impairment loss recognised for goodwill is not reversed in a subsequent period.

Where goodwill has been allocated to a cash-generating unit (or group of cash-generating units) and part of the operation within that unit is disposed of, the goodwill associated with the operation disposed of is included in the carrying amount of the operation when determining the gain or loss on the disposal. Goodwill disposed of in these circumstances is measured based on the relative value of the operation disposed of and the portion of the cash-generating unit (or group of cash-generating units) retained.

Subsidiaries

Subsidiaries are all those entities over which the Company and its subsidiaries have power over the investee such that the Company and its subsidiaries are able to direct the relevant activities, has exposure or rights to variable returns from its involvement with the investee and has the ability to use its power over the investee to affect the amount of the investor's returns.

Associates

Based on the Company and its subsidiaries' ownership percentage (considering its direct ownership as well as potentially exercisable or convertible shares) and other contractual terms, the Company and its subsidiaries have significant influence over its associates, rather than the power to control.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

31 December 2023

Associates (continued)

The Company and its subsidiaries' investments in associates are stated in the consolidated statement of financial position at the Company and its subsidiaries' share of net assets under the equity method of accounting, less any impairment losses. Necessary adjustments are made to bring into line any dissimilar accounting policies that may exist. Under the equity method, an investment in an associate is initially recognised in the consolidated statement of financial position at cost and adjusted thereafter to recognise the Company and its subsidiaries' share of the profit or loss and other comprehensive income of the associate. Unrealised gains and losses resulting from transactions between the Company and its subsidiaries and its associates are eliminated to the extent of the Company and its subsidiaries' investments in the associates, except where unrealised losses provide evidence of an impairment of the asset transferred. Goodwill arising from the acquisition of associates is included as part of the Company and its subsidiaries' investments in associates and is not individually tested for impairment.

Joint arrangements

Certain of the Company and its subsidiaries' activities are conducted through joint arrangements. Joint arrangements are classified as either a joint operation or joint venture, based on the rights and obligations arising from the contractual obligations between the parties to the arrangement.

Joint control

Joint control is the contractually agreed sharing of control of an arrangement, which exists only when decisions about the relevant activities require unanimous consent of the parties sharing control.

Joint operations

Some arrangements have been assessed by the Company and its subsidiaries as joint operations as both parties to the contract are responsible for the assets and obligations in proportion to their respective interest, whether or not the arrangement is structured through a separate vehicle. This evaluation applies to both the Company and its subsidiaries' interests in production sharing arrangements and certain joint operations.

The Company and its subsidiaries entered into numerous production sharing arrangements or similar agreements in China and overseas countries. The Company and its subsidiaries' participating interest may vary in each arrangement. The Company and its subsidiaries, as one of the title owners under certain exploration and/or production licenses or permits, are required to bear exploration (with some exceptions in China), development and operating costs together with other co-owners based on each owner's participating interest. Once production occurs, a certain percentage of the annual production or revenue is first distributed to the local government, which, in most cases, with the nature of royalty and other taxes or expenses, and the rest of the annual production or revenue is allocated among the co-owners.

The Company and its subsidiaries account for the assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses relating to its interest in a joint operation in accordance with the IFRSs/HKFRSs applicable to the particular assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses.

Joint venture

A joint venture is a joint arrangement whereby the parties that have joint control of the arrangement have rights to the net assets of the arrangement.

The Company and its subsidiaries' investments in joint ventures are stated in the consolidated statement of financial position at the Company and its subsidiaries' share of net assets under the equity method of accounting, less any impairment losses. Necessary adjustments are made to bring into line any dissimilar accounting policies that may exist. Under the equity method, an investment in a joint venture is initially recognised in the consolidated statement of financial position at cost and adjusted thereafter to recognise the Company and its subsidiaries' share of the profit or loss and other comprehensive income of the joint venture. Where the profit sharing ratios are different to the Company and its subsidiaries' equity interest, the share of post-acquisition results of the joint ventures is determined based on the agreed profit sharing ratio. Unrealised gains and losses resulting from transactions between the Company and its subsidiaries and its joint ventures are eliminated to the extent of the Company and its subsidiaries' investments in the joint ventures, except where unrealised losses provide evidence of an impairment of the asset transferred. Goodwill arising from the acquisition of joint ventures is included as part of the Company and its subsidiaries' investments in joint ventures and is not individually tested for impairment.

Related parties

A party is considered to be related to the Company and its subsidiaries if:

- (a) the party is a person or a close member of that person's family and that person:
 - (i) has control or joint control of the Company;
 - (ii) has significant influence over the Company; or
 - (iii) is a member of the key management personnel of the Company and its subsidiaries or of a parent of the Company.
- (b) the party is an entity where any of the following conditions applies:
 - (i) the entity and the Company and its subsidiaries are members of the same group;
 - (ii) one entity is an associate or joint venture of the other entity (or of a parent, subsidiary or fellow subsidiary of the other entity);
 - (iii) the entity and the Company are joint ventures of the same third party;
 - (iv) one entity is a joint venture of a third entity and the other entity is an associate of the third entity;
 - (v) the entity is a post-employment benefit plan for the benefit of employees of either the Company and its subsidiaries or an entity related to the Company and its subsidiaries;
 - (vi) the entity is controlled or jointly controlled by a person identified in (a);
 - (vii) a person identified in (a)(i) has significant influence over the entity or is a member of the key management personnel of the entity (or of a parent of the entity); and
 - (viii) the entity, or any member of a group of which it is a part, provides key management personnel services to the Company and its subsidiaries or to the parent of the Company.

Impairment of non-financial assets other than goodwill

Where an indication of impairment exists, or when annual impairment testing for an asset is required (other than inventories, deferred tax assets and goodwill), the asset's recoverable amount is estimated. An asset's recoverable amount is the higher of the asset's value in use and its fair value less costs of disposal, and is determined for an individual asset, unless the asset does not generate cash inflows that are largely independent of those from other assets or groups of assets, in which case the recoverable amount is determined for the cash-generating unit to which the asset belongs.

An impairment loss is recognised only if the carrying amount of an asset exceeds its recoverable amount. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the asset. An impairment loss is charged to profit or loss in the period in which it arises in those expense categories consistent with the function of the impaired asset.

An assessment is made at the end of each reporting period as to whether there is any indication that previously recognised impairment losses may no longer exist or may have decreased. If such an indication exists, the recoverable amount is estimated. A previously recognised impairment loss of an asset other than goodwill is reversed only if there has been a change in the estimates used to determine the recoverable amount of that asset, but not to an amount higher than the carrying amount that would have been determined (net of any depreciation/amortisation) had no impairment loss been recognised for the asset in prior years. A reversal of such an impairment loss is credited to profit or loss in the period in which it arises.

Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment comprise oil and gas properties, and vehicles and office equipment and others.

(a) Oil and gas properties

For oil and gas properties, the successful efforts method of accounting is adopted. The Company and its subsidiaries capitalise the initial acquisition costs of oil and gas properties. Impairment of initial acquisition costs is recognised based on exploratory experience and management judgement and charged to profit and loss. Upon discovery of commercial reserves, acquisition costs are transferred to proved properties. The costs of drilling and equipping successful exploratory wells, all development expenditures on construction, installation or completion of infrastructure facilities such as platforms, pipelines, processing plants and the drilling of development wells and the building of enhanced recovery facilities, including those renewals and betterments that extend the economic lives of the assets, and the related borrowing costs are capitalised. The costs of unsuccessful exploratory wells and all other exploration costs are expensed as incurred.

The Company and its subsidiaries carry exploratory well costs as an asset when the well has found a sufficient quantity of reserves to justify its completion as a producing well and where the Company and its subsidiaries are making sufficient progress assessing the reserves and the economic and operating viability of the project. Exploratory well costs not meeting these criteria are charged to expenses. Exploratory wells that discover potentially economic reserves in areas where major capital expenditure will be required before production would begin and when the major capital expenditure depends upon the successful completion of further exploratory work remain capitalised and are reviewed periodically for impairment.

Producing oil and gas properties are depreciated on a unit-of-production basis over the proved developed reserves. Common facilities that are built specifically to service production directly attributed to designated oil and gas properties are depreciated based on the proved developed reserves of the respective oil and gas properties on a pro-rata basis. Common facilities that are not built specifically to service identified oil and gas properties are depreciated using the straight-line method over their estimated useful lives. Costs associated with significant development projects are not depreciated until commercial production commences and the reserves related to those costs are excluded from the calculation of depreciation.

Capitalised acquisition costs of proved properties are depreciated on a unit-of-production method over the total proved reserves of the relevant oil and gas properties.

(b) Vehicles, office equipment and others

Vehicles, office equipment and others are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation and impairment losses. The straight-line method is adopted to depreciate the cost less any estimated residual value of these assets over their expected useful lives. The useful lives of vehicles, office equipment and other assets are in line with their beneficial periods.

Where parts of an item of property, plant and equipment have different useful lives, the cost of that item is allocated on a recoverable basis among the parts and each part is depreciated separately.

Residual values, useful lives and the depreciation method are reviewed and, adjusted if appropriate, at each reporting date.

Any gains and losses on disposals of property, plant and equipment (calculated as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset) are recognised in profit or loss.

3. MATERIAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

Intangible assets other than goodwill

The intangible assets of the Company and its subsidiaries comprise software and others, the rights to use gas processing facilities under NWS project, marketing transportation and storage contracts, and exploration rights. Intangible assets with finite lives are carried at cost, less accumulated amortisation and accumulated impairment losses. The cost of intangible assets acquired in a business combination is the fair value as at the date of acquisition. Intangible assets with finite lives except for gas processing rights, are amortised on the straight-line basis over the useful economic life and assessed for impairment whenever there is an indication that the intangible asset may be impaired. The amortisation period and the amortisation method for an intangible asset with a finite useful life are reviewed at least at each financial year end.

The intangible assets regarding software have been amortised on the straight-line basis over their respective useful lives. The intangible asset regarding the gas processing rights has been amortised upon the commercial production of the liquefied natural gas on a unit-of-production basis over the total proved reserves of the relevant asset. The intangible assets regarding the marketing transportation and storage contracts and drilling rig contracts are amortised over the life of the contracts on the straight-line basis. The intangible assets related to the exploration rights are amortised over the estimated useful life.

Major maintenance and repairs

Expenditure on major maintenance refits and repairs comprises the costs of replacement assets or parts of assets and overhaul costs. Where an asset or part of an asset that is separately depreciated and is replaced, and it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the item will flow to the Company and its subsidiaries, the replacement expenditure is capitalised. Where part of the asset is not separately considered as a component, the replacement value is used to estimate the carrying amount of the replaced assets which is immediately written off. All other maintenance costs are expensed as incurred.

Research and development costs

All research costs are expensed as incurred.

Expenditure (other than that relating to oil and gas properties discussed above) incurred on projects to develop new products is capitalised and deferred only when the Company and its subsidiaries can demonstrate the technical feasibility of completing the intangible asset so that it will be available for use or sale, its intention to complete and its ability to use or sell the asset, how the asset will generate future economic benefits, the availability of resources to complete the project and the ability to measure reliably the expenditure during the development. Product development expenditure which does not meet these criteria is expensed when incurred.

Financial assets

Financial assets are initially measured at fair value except for trade receivables arising from contracts with customers which are initially measured in accordance with IFRS 15/HKFRS 15. All recognised financial assets are subsequently measured in their entirety at either amortised cost or fair value, depending on the classification of the financial assets.

(a) Financial assets at amortised cost

Debt instruments that meet the following conditions are subsequently measured at amortised cost less impairment loss:

- the asset is held within a business model whose objective is to hold assets in order to collect contractual cash flows; and
- the contractual terms of the instrument give rise on specified dates to cash flows that are solely payments of principal and interest on the principal amount outstanding.

All other financial assets are subsequently measured at fair value.

The effective interest method is a method of calculating the amortised cost of a financial asset or financial liability and of allocating interest income and interest expense over the relevant period. The effective interest rate is the rate that accurately discounts estimated future cash receipts and payments (including all fees and points paid or received that form an integral part of the effective interest rate, transaction costs and other premiums or discounts) through the expected life of the financial asset or financial liability, or, where appropriate, a shorter period, to the net carrying amount on initial recognition.

(b) Financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income (FVTOCI) (equity investments)

On initial recognition, the Company and its subsidiaries can make an irrevocable election (on an instrument-by-instrument basis) to designate investments in equity instruments as at FVTOCI. The Company and its subsidiaries have investments in certain equity instruments (publicly traded or non-publicly traded), the purpose of which are not held for trading, but held for medium or long-term strategic purpose. Therefore, those investments in equity instruments are designated as at FVTOCI.

Investments in equity instruments at FVTOCI are initially measured at fair value plus transaction costs. Subsequently, they are measured at fair value with gains or losses arising from changes in fair value recognised in other comprehensive income and accumulated in other reserves. The cumulative gain or loss will not be reclassified to profit or loss on disposal of the investments.

Dividends from these investments in equity instruments are recognised in profit or loss when the Company and its subsidiaries' right to receive the dividends is established, unless the dividends clearly represent a recovery of part of the cost of the investment.

(c) Financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income (FVTOCI) (debt instruments)

Financial assets that meet the following conditions are subsequently measured at fair value through other comprehensive income:

- the financial asset is held within a business model whose objective is achieved by both selling and collecting contractual cash flows; and
- the contractual terms give rise on specified dates to cash flows that are solely payments of principal and interest on the principal amount outstanding.

For debt investments at fair value through other comprehensive income, interest income, foreign exchange revaluation and impairment losses or reversals are recognised in profit or loss and computed in the same manner as for financial assets measured at amortised cost. The remaining fair value changes are recognised in other comprehensive income. Upon derecognition, the cumulative fair value change recognised in other comprehensive income is recycled to profit or loss.

(d) Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL)

Financial assets that do not meet the criteria for being measured at amortised cost or FVTOCI or designated as at FVTOCI are measured at FVTPL.

Financial assets at FVTPL are measured at fair value at the end of each reporting period, with any gains or losses arising on remeasurement recognised in profit or loss.

Fair value

The fair value of financial instruments that are traded in active markets at each reporting date is determined by reference to quoted market prices or dealer price quotations, without any deduction for transaction costs.

For financial instruments not traded in an active market, the fair value is determined using appropriate valuation techniques. Such techniques may include using recent arm's length market transactions; reference to the current fair value of another instrument that is substantially the same; a discounted cash flow analysis or other valuation models.

An analysis of fair values of financial instruments and further details as to how they are measured are provided in note 36.

3. MATERIAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

Impairment of financial assets

The Company and its subsidiaries perform impairment assessment under expected credit loss (“ECL”) model on financial assets (including cash and cash equivalents, time deposits with maturity over three months, trade receivables, other receivables and debt investment), which are subject to impairment assessment under IFRS 9/HKFRS 9. The amount of ECL is updated at each reporting date to reflect changes in credit risk since initial recognition.

Lifetime ECL represents the ECL that will result from all possible default events over the expected life of the relevant instrument. In contrast, 12-month ECL (“12m ECL”) represents the portion of lifetime ECL that is expected to result from default events that are possible within 12 months after the reporting date. Assessment is done based on the Company and its subsidiaries’ historical credit loss experience, adjusted for factors that are specific to the debtors, general economic conditions and an assessment of both the current conditions at the reporting date as well as the forecast of future conditions.

The Company and its subsidiaries always recognise lifetime ECL for trade receivables without significant financing component.

For all other instruments, the Company and its subsidiaries measure the loss allowance equal to 12m ECL, unless when there has been a significant increase in credit risk since initial recognition, in which case the Company and its subsidiaries recognise lifetime ECL. The assessment of whether lifetime ECL should be recognised is based on significant increases in the likelihood or risk of a default occurring since initial recognition.

Significant increase in credit risk

In assessing whether the credit risk has increased significantly since initial recognition, the Company and its subsidiaries compare the risk of a default occurring on the financial instrument as at the reporting date with the risk of a default occurring on the financial instrument as at the date of initial recognition. In making this assessment, the Company and its subsidiaries consider both quantitative and qualitative information that is reasonable and supportable, including historical experience and forward-looking information that is available without undue cost or effort.

In particular, the following information is taken into account when assessing whether credit risk has increased significantly:

- an actual or expected significant deterioration in the financial instrument’s external (if available) or internal credit rating;
- significant deterioration in external market indicators of credit risk, e.g. a significant increase in the credit spread, the credit default swap prices for the debtor;
- existing or forecast adverse changes in business, financial or economic conditions that are expected to cause a significant decrease in the debtor’s ability to meet its debt obligations;
- an actual or expected significant deterioration in the operating results of the debtor;
- an actual or expected significant adverse change in the regulatory, economic, or technological environment of the debtor that results in a significant decrease in the debtor’s ability to meet its debt obligations.

Irrespective of the outcome of the above assessment, the Company and its subsidiaries presume that the credit risk has increased significantly since initial recognition when contractual payments are more than 30 days past due, unless the Company and its subsidiaries have reasonable and supportable information that demonstrates otherwise.

The Company and its subsidiaries regularly monitor the effectiveness of the criteria used to identify whether there has been a significant increase in credit risk and revises them as appropriate to ensure that the criteria are capable of identifying significant increase in credit risk before the amount becomes past due.

Definition of default

For internal credit risk management, the Company and its subsidiaries consider an event of default occurs when information developed internally or obtained from external sources indicates that the debtor is unlikely to pay its creditors, including the Company and its subsidiaries, in full (without taking into account any collaterals held by the Company and its subsidiaries).

Credit-impaired financial assets

A financial asset is credit-impaired when one or more events of default that have a detrimental impact on the estimated future cash flows of that financial asset have occurred. Evidence that a financial asset is credit-impaired includes observable data about the following events:

- significant financial difficulty of the issuer or the borrower;
- a breach of contract, such as a default or past due event;
- the lenders of the borrower, for economic or contractual reasons relating to the borrower's financial difficulty, having granted to the borrower a concession that the lenders would not otherwise consider;
- it is becoming probable that the borrower will enter bankruptcy or other financial reorganisation;
- the disappearance of an active market for that financial asset because of financial difficulties; or
- the purchase or origination of a financial asset at a deep discount that reflects the incurred credit losses.

Write-off policy

The Company and its subsidiaries write off a financial asset when there is information indicating that the counterparty is in severe financial difficulty and there is no realistic prospect of recovery. Financial assets written off may still be subject to enforcement activities under the Company and its subsidiaries' recovery procedures, taking into account legal advice where appropriate. A write-off constitutes a derecognition event. Any subsequent recoveries are recognised in profit or loss.

Measurement and recognition of ECL

The measurement of ECL is a function of the probability of default, loss given default (i.e. the magnitude of the loss if there is a default) and the exposure at default. The assessment of the probability of default and loss given default is based on historical data and forward-looking information. Estimation of ECL reflects an unbiased and probability-weighted amount that is determined with the respective risks of default occurring as the weights.

Generally, the ECL is the difference between all contractual cash flows that are due to the Company and its subsidiaries in accordance with the contract and all the cash flows that the Company and its subsidiaries expect to receive, discounted at the effective interest rate determined at initial recognition.

The Company and its subsidiaries recognise an impairment gain or loss in profit or loss for all financial instruments by adjusting their carrying amount, with the exception of trade receivables and other receivables where the corresponding adjustment is recognised through a loss allowance account.

Derecognition of financial assets

A financial asset (or, where applicable a part of a financial asset or part of a group of similar financial assets) is derecognised when:

- (i) The contractual rights to receive cash flows from the asset have expired; or
- (ii) the Company and its subsidiaries have transferred its rights to receive cash flows from the asset, or the Company and its subsidiaries retain the contractual rights to receive the cash flows from the asset, but has assumed an obligation to pay the received cash flows in full without material delay to a third party under a "pass-through" arrangement; and either (a) has transferred substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset, or (b) has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset, but has no control of the asset.

When the Company and its subsidiaries have transferred its rights to receive cash flows from an asset or has entered into a pass-through arrangement, it evaluates if and to what extent it has retained the risk and rewards of ownership of the asset. When it has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset nor transferred control of the asset, the Company and its subsidiaries continue to recognise the transferred asset to the extent of the Company and its subsidiaries' continuing involvement. In that case, the Company and its subsidiaries also recognise an associated liability. The transferred asset and the associated liability are measured on a basis that reflects the rights and obligations that the Company and its subsidiaries have retained.

Financial liabilities at amortised cost (including trade and other payables, interest-bearing loans and borrowings)

Financial liabilities including trade payables, other payables, and interest-bearing loans and borrowings are initially stated at fair value including directly attributable transaction costs and are subsequently measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest method.

Gains and losses are recognised in profit or loss when the liabilities are derecognised as well as through the amortisation process.

Derecognition of financial liabilities

The Company and its subsidiaries derecognise financial liabilities when, and only when the Company and its subsidiaries' obligations are discharged, cancelled or have expired. The difference between the carrying amount of the financial liability derecognised and the consideration paid and payable is recognised in profit or loss.

When the contractual terms of financial liability are modified, the revised terms would result in a substantial modification from the original terms, after taking into account all relevant facts and circumstances including qualitative factors, such modification is accounted for as derecognition of the original financial liability and the recognition of new financial liability. The difference between the carrying amount of financial liability derecognised and the fair value of consideration paid or payable, including any liabilities assumed is recognised in profit or loss.

For non-substantial modifications of financial liabilities that do not result in derecognition, the carrying amount of the relevant financial liabilities is calculated at the present value of the modified contractual cash flows discounted at the financial liabilities' original effective interest rate. Transaction costs or fees incurred are adjusted to the carrying amount of the modified financial liabilities and are amortised over the remaining term. Any adjustment to the carrying amount of the financial liability is recognised in profit or loss at the date of modification.

Offsetting of financial instruments

Financial assets and liabilities are offset and the net amount reported in the consolidated statement of financial position, if and only if, there is a currently enforceable legal right to offset the recognised amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, or to realise the assets and settle the liabilities simultaneously.

Inventories and supplies

Inventories primarily consist of oil and supplies, including items for repairs and maintenance of oil and gas properties. Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Costs of inventories and supplies represent purchase or production cost of goods and are determined on a weighted average basis.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents comprise cash at banks and on hand and short-term deposits with an original maturity of three months or less.

Provisions

(a) General

A provision is recognised when a present obligation (legal or constructive) has arisen as a result of a past event and it is probable that a future outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation, provided that a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation. When the effect of discounting is material, the amount recognised for a provision is the present value at the reporting date of the future expenditures expected to be required to settle the obligation. The increase in the discounted present value amount arising from the passage of time is included in profit or loss.

(b) Dismantlement liability

Dismantlement liability is recognised when the Company or its subsidiaries have a present legal or constructive obligation as a result of the past events, and it is probable that an outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation, and a reliable estimate of the amount of the obligation can be made. A corresponding amount equivalent to the provision is also recognised as part of the cost of the related property, plant and equipment. The amount recognised is the estimated cost of dismantlement, discounted to its present value using a current pre-tax rate that reflects, where appropriate, the risks specific to the liability. Changes in the estimated timing of dismantlement or dismantlement cost estimates are dealt with prospectively by recording an adjustment to the provision, and a corresponding adjustment to property, plant and equipment. The unwinding of the discount on the dismantlement provision is included as a finance cost.

Income tax

Income tax comprises current and deferred tax. Income tax is recognised in the consolidated statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income, either as an expense as it relates to operating activities or as a component of the applicable categories of other comprehensive income or expense.

Current tax assets and liabilities for the current and prior periods are measured at the amount expected to be recovered from or paid to the taxation authorities. The tax rates and tax laws used to compute the amount are those that are enacted or substantially enacted, by the reporting date, in the countries where the Company and its subsidiaries operate and generate taxable income.

Deferred tax is provided, using the balance sheet liability method, on all temporary differences at the reporting date between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts for financial reporting purposes.

Deferred tax liabilities are recognised for all taxable temporary differences, except:

- when the deferred tax liability arises from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction that is not a business combination and, at the time of the transaction, affects neither the accounting profit nor taxable profit or loss and does not give rise to equal taxable and deductible temporary differences; and
- in respect of taxable temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries, associates and interests in joint ventures, when the timing of the reversal of the temporary differences can be controlled and it is probable that the temporary differences will not reverse in the foreseeable future.

Deferred tax assets are recognised for all deductible temporary differences, the carryforward of unused tax credits and any unused tax losses to the extent that it is probable that taxable profit and taxable temporary differences will be available against which the deductible temporary differences, the carryforward of unused tax credits and unused tax losses can be utilised, except:

- when the deferred tax assets relating to the deductible temporary differences arise from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction that is not a business combination and, at the time of the transaction, affects neither the accounting profit nor taxable profit or loss and does not give rise to equal taxable and deductible temporary differences; and
- in respect of deductible temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries, associates and interests in joint ventures, deferred tax assets are only recognised to the extent that it is probable that the temporary differences will reverse in the foreseeable future and taxable profit will be available against which the temporary differences can be utilised.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets is reviewed at each reporting date and reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable profit will be available to allow all or part of the deferred tax asset to be utilised. Unrecognised deferred tax assets are reassessed at each reporting date and are recognised to the extent that it is probable that sufficient taxable profit and taxable temporary differences will be available to allow all or part of the deferred tax asset to be utilised.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rates that are expected to apply to the period when the asset is realised or the liability is settled, based on tax rates (and tax laws) that have been enacted or substantively enacted at the reporting date.

Deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities are offset if a legally enforceable right exists to set off current tax assets against current tax liabilities and the deferred taxes relate to the same taxable entity and the same taxation authority.

In assessing any uncertainty over income tax treatments, the Company and its subsidiaries consider whether it is probable that the relevant tax authority will accept the uncertain tax treatment used, or proposed to be used by individual group entities in their income tax filings. If it is probable, the current and deferred taxes are determined consistently with the tax treatment in the income tax filings. If it is not probable that the relevant taxation authority will accept an uncertain tax treatment, the effect of each uncertainty is reflected by using either the most likely amount or the expected value.

Revenue Recognition

The Company and its subsidiaries recognise revenue when (or as) a performance obligation is satisfied, i.e. when “control” of the goods or services underlying the particular obligation is transferred to the customer.

A performance obligation represents a good or service (or a bundle of goods or services) that is distinct or a series of distinct goods or services that are substantially the same.

Control is transferred over time and revenue is recognised over time by reference to the progress towards complete satisfaction of the relevant performance obligation if any one of the following criteria is met:

- the customer simultaneously receives and consumes the benefits provided by the Company and its subsidiaries’ performance as the Company and its subsidiaries perform;
- the Company and its subsidiaries’ performance creates or enhances an asset that the customer controls as the Company and its subsidiaries perform; or
- the Company and its subsidiaries’ performance does not create an asset with an alternative use to the Company and its subsidiaries and the Company and its subsidiaries have an enforceable right to payment for performance completed to date.

Otherwise, revenue is recognised at a point in time when the customer obtains control of the distinct good or service.

A contract liability represents the Company and its subsidiaries’ obligation to transfer goods or services to a customer for which the Company and its subsidiaries have received consideration (or an amount of consideration is due) from the customer.

3. MATERIAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

Retirement and termination benefits

The Company and its subsidiaries participate in defined contribution plans in accordance with local laws and regulations for full-time employees in the PRC and other countries in which it operates. The Company and its subsidiaries' contributions to these defined contribution plans are charged to profit or loss in the year to which they relate.

For defined benefit plans, the Company and its subsidiaries attribute the welfare obligations arising from the defined benefit plans to the period when employees provide services according to the formula determined by the expected cumulative welfare unit method, and recognise in profit and loss or relevant costs. Service costs and net interests on net defined benefit liabilities or assets are recognised in profit and loss. Remeasurements arising from net defined benefit liabilities or assets are recognised in other comprehensive income. Remeasurements are not reclassified to profit or loss in subsequent periods.

Borrowing costs

Borrowing costs consist of interest and other costs that an entity incurs in connection with the borrowing of funds. Borrowing costs directly relating to the acquisition, construction or production of a qualifying asset that necessarily takes a substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use or sale are capitalised as part of the cost of the respective assets. All other borrowing costs are expensed in the period in which they are incurred.

Leases

Definition of a lease

A contract is, or contains, a lease if the contract conveys the right to control the use of an identified asset for a period of time in exchange for consideration.

For contracts entered into or modified or arising from business combinations, the Company and its subsidiaries assess whether a contract is or contains a lease based on the definition under IFRS 16/HKFRS 16 at inception, modification date or acquisition date, as appropriate. Such contract will not be reassessed unless the terms and conditions of the contract are subsequently changed.

The Company and its subsidiaries as a lessee

Allocation of consideration to components of a contract

For a contract that contains a lease component and one or more additional lease or non-lease components, the Company and its subsidiaries allocate the consideration in the contract to each lease component on the basis of the relative stand-alone price of the lease component and the aggregate stand-alone price of the non-lease components.

Non-lease components are separated from lease component on the basis of their relative stand-alone prices.

As a practical expedient, leases with similar characteristics are accounted on a portfolio basis when the Company and its subsidiaries reasonably expect that the effects on the consolidated financial statements would not differ materially from individual leases within the portfolio.

Short-term leases and leases of low-value assets

The Company and its subsidiaries apply the short-term lease recognition exemption to leases that have a lease term of 12 months or less from the commencement date and do not contain a purchase option. It also applies the recognition exemption for lease of low-value assets. Lease payments on short-term leases and leases of low-value assets are recognised as expense on a straight-line basis or another systematic basis over the lease term.

Leases (continued)

Right-of-use assets

The cost of right-of-use asset includes:

- the amount of the initial measurement of the lease liability;
- any lease payments made at or before the commencement date, less any lease incentives received;
- any initial direct costs incurred by the Company and its subsidiaries; and
- an estimate of costs to be incurred by the Company and its subsidiaries in dismantling and removing the underlying assets, restoring the site on which it is located or restoring the underlying asset to the condition required by the terms and conditions of the lease, unless those costs are incurred to produce inventories.

Right-of-use assets in which the Company and its subsidiaries are reasonably certain to obtain ownership of the underlying leased assets at the end of the lease term are depreciated from commencement date to the end of the useful life. Otherwise, right-of-use assets are depreciated on a straight-line basis over the shorter of its estimated useful life and the lease term.

The Company and its subsidiaries present right-of-use assets as a separate line item on the consolidated statement of financial position.

Lease liabilities

At the commencement date of a lease, the Company and its subsidiaries recognise and measure the lease liability at the present value of lease payments that are unpaid at that date. In calculating the present value of lease payments, the Company and its subsidiaries use the incremental borrowing rate at the lease commencement date if the interest rate implicit in the lease is not readily determinable.

The lease payments include:

- fixed payments (including in-substance fixed payments) less any lease incentives receivable;
- variable lease payments that depend on an index or a rate, initially measured using the index or rate as at the commencement date;
- amounts expected to be payable by the Company and its subsidiaries under residual value guarantees;
- the exercise price of a purchase option if the Company and its subsidiaries are reasonably certain to exercise the option; and
- payments of penalties for terminating a lease, if the lease term reflects the Company and its subsidiaries exercising an option to terminate the lease.

Variable lease payments that reflect changes in market rental rates are initially measured using the market rental rates as at the commencement date. Variable lease payments that do not depend on an index or a rate are not included in the measurement of lease liabilities and right-of-use assets, and are recognised as expense in the period in which the event or condition that triggers the payment occurs.

After the commencement date, lease liabilities are adjusted by interest accretion and lease payments.

The Company and its subsidiaries remeasure lease liabilities (and make a corresponding adjustment to the related right-of-use assets) whenever:

- the lease term has changed or there is a change in the assessment of exercise of a purchase option, in which case the related lease liability is remeasured by discounting the revised lease payments using a revised discount rate at the date of reassessment.
- the lease payments change due to changes in market rental rates following a market rent review or expected payment under a guaranteed residual value, in which cases the related lease liability is remeasured by discounting the revised lease payments using the initial discount rate.

The Company and its subsidiaries present lease liabilities as a separate line item on the consolidated statement of financial position.

Lease modifications

The Company and its subsidiaries account for a lease modification as a separate lease if:

- the modification increases the scope of the lease by adding the right to use one or more underlying assets; and
- the consideration for the leases increases by an amount commensurate with the stand-alone price for the increase in scope and any appropriate adjustments to that stand-alone price to reflect the circumstances of the particular contract.

For a lease modification that is not accounted for as a separate lease, the Company and its subsidiaries remeasure the lease liability based on the lease term of the modified lease by discounting the revised lease payments using a revised discount rate at the effective date of the modification.

The Company and its subsidiaries account for the remeasurement of lease liabilities by making corresponding adjustments to the relevant right-of-use asset. When the modified contract contains a lease component and one or more additional lease or non-lease components, the Company and its subsidiaries allocate the consideration in the modified contract to each lease component on the basis of the relative stand-alone price of the lease component and the aggregate stand-alone price of the non-lease components.

Foreign currencies

These consolidated financial statements are presented in RMB. The Company and each of its subsidiaries maintain its books and records in its own functional currency. Foreign currency transactions are initially recorded using the Company and each of its subsidiaries' respective exchange rates ruling at the dates of the transactions. Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are retranslated at the exchange rates ruling at the end of the reporting period. All differences arising on settlement or translation of monetary items are taken to profit or loss. Non-monetary items that are measured in terms of historical cost in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rates at the dates of the initial transactions. Non-monetary items measured at fair value in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rates at the date when the fair value was determined. The gain or loss arising on retranslation of a non-monetary item is treated consistently with the recognition of the gain or loss on change in fair value of the item.

The functional currencies of the Company and certain subsidiaries are currencies other than RMB. As at the end of the reporting period, the assets and liabilities of these entities are translated into the presentation currency of the Company and its subsidiaries at the exchange rates ruling at the reporting date, and their statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income are translated into RMB at the exchange rates at the dates of the transaction. The resulting exchange differences are included in the cumulative translation reserves. On disposal of a foreign operation, the deferred cumulative amount recognised in equity relating to that particular foreign operation is recognised in profit or loss.

Contingencies

A contingent liability is disclosed when the existence of an obligation will only be confirmed by future events or when the amount of the obligation cannot be measured reliably.

A contingent asset is not recognised in the consolidated financial statements, but is disclosed when an inflow of economic benefits is probable.

Significant accounting judgements, estimates and assumptions

The preparation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with IFRSs and HKFRSs requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the consolidated financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Estimates and judgements are continuously evaluated and are based on management's experience and other factors, including expectations of future events that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances. However, actual outcomes can differ from these estimates.

Especially, the Company and its subsidiaries have business and operations in various jurisdictions. If the jurisdictions in which the Company and its subsidiaries operate encounter geopolitical conflicts, political and economic instability or other situations, associated international actions, or changes in policies, laws fiscal and tax regimes, which are not within the Company and its subsidiaries' control, the Company and its subsidiaries' operations, existing assets or future investments may be materially affected by these changes as well as trade and economic sanctions due to deteriorated relations among different countries.

In the process of applying the Company and its subsidiaries' accounting policies, the Directors have made the following judgements, estimates and assumptions, which have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in the consolidated financial statements.

(a) Reserve base

Oil and gas properties are depreciated on a unit-of-production basis at a rate calculated by reference to proved reserves. Commercial reserves are determined using estimates of oil in place, future oil price and recovery factors. Future oil price has impacts on the proportion of the gross reserves which are attributable to the host government under the terms of the production sharing contracts. The level of estimated commercial reserves is also a key determinant in assessing whether the carrying value of any of the Company and its subsidiaries' oil and gas properties has been impaired.

Pursuant to the oil and gas reserve estimation requirements under US Securities and Exchange Commission's rules, the Company and its subsidiaries use the average, first-day-of-the-month oil price during the 12-month period before the ending date of the period covered by the consolidated financial statements to estimate its proved crude and liquids reserves and natural gas reserves.

(b) Carrying value of oil and gas properties

The calculation of the unit-of-production rate for oil and gas properties depreciation could be impacted to the extent that actual production in the future is different from current forecast production based on proved reserves. This would generally result from significant changes in any of the factors or assumptions used in estimating reserves. These factors could include changes in proved reserves, the effect on proved reserves of differences between actual oil and gas prices and oil and gas price assumptions and unforeseen operational issues.

(c) Recoverable amount of oil and gas properties

The Company and its subsidiaries make an assessment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable, or when there is any indication that an impairment loss previously recognised for an asset in prior years may no longer exist or may have decreased. In any event, the Company and its subsidiaries would make an estimate of the asset's recoverable amount, which is calculated at the higher of the asset's value in use and its fair value less costs of disposal. The Company and its subsidiaries recognise an impairment loss only if the carrying amount of an asset exceeds its recoverable amount. The Company and its subsidiaries charge an impairment loss to the profit or loss in the period in which it arises. A reversal of an impairment loss is credited to the profit or loss in the period in which it arises.

The calculations of the recoverable amount of assets require the use of estimates and assumptions. The key assumptions include, but are not limited to, future oil and gas prices, future production estimates, estimated future capital expenditures, estimated future operating expenses and the discount rate.

Changes in the key assumptions used, which could be significant, include updates to future pricing estimates, updates to future production estimates to align with the Company and its subsidiaries' anticipated drilling plan, changes in the Company and its subsidiaries' capital costs and operating expense assumptions, and discount rate. There is a significant degree of uncertainty with the assumptions used to estimate future cash flows due to various risk factors. The complex economic outlook may also materially and adversely affect the Company and its subsidiaries' key assumptions. Changes in economic conditions can also affect the discount rates applied in assessments of impairment.

Actual cash flows are likely to be different from those estimated or forecast since anticipated events frequently do not occur as expected and unforeseen events may arise. The Company and its subsidiaries' results of operations could be materially and adversely affected for the period in which future impairment charges are incurred.

The sensitivity analysis for the impairment testing involves estimates and judgments to consider numerous assumptions comprehensively. Those assumptions interact on each other and interrelate with each other complexly and do not have fixed patterns along with the changes in price. Accordingly, the Company and its subsidiaries believe that the preparation of the sensitivity analysis for the impairment testing will be impracticable. Changes in assumptions could affect impairment charges and reversals in the consolidated statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income, and the carrying amounts of assets in the consolidated statement of financial position.

In the calculations of the recoverable amount of the oil and gas properties in a joint venture and the recoverable amount of investments in associates of which the investee engaged in oil and gas exploration and development business, the Company and its subsidiaries use the same approach above.

(d) Dismantlement costs

Dismantlement costs will be incurred by the Company and its subsidiaries at the end of the operating life of certain of the Company and its subsidiaries' facilities and properties. The ultimate dismantlement costs are uncertain and cost estimates can vary in response to many factors including changes to relevant legal requirements, the emergence of new restoration techniques or experience at other production sites. The expected timing and amount of expenditure can also change, for example, in response to changes in reserves or changes in laws and regulations or their interpretation. As a result, there could be significant adjustments to the provisions established which would affect future financial results.

(e) Taxes

Uncertainties exist with respect to the interpretation of complex tax regulations (including those applicable to tax credits) and the amount and timing of future taxable income. Given the wide range of international business relationships and the long-term nature and complexity of existing contractual agreements, differences arising between the actual results and the assumptions made, or future changes to such assumptions, could necessitate future adjustments to tax income and expense already recorded. The Company and its subsidiaries establish provisions, based on best estimates, for possible consequences of audits by the tax authorities of the respective countries in which it operates. The amount of such provisions is based on various factors, such as the Company and its subsidiaries' experience of previous tax audits and differing interpretations of tax regulations by the taxable entity and the responsible tax authority. Such differences of interpretation may arise on a wide variety of issues depending on the conditions prevailing in the respective entities' domicile.

4. OIL AND GAS SALES AND MARKETING REVENUES

| | 2023 | 2022 |
|-------------------------------|---------|---------|
| Gross sales | 334,050 | 364,574 |
| Less: Royalties | (4,921) | (9,995) |
| PRC government's share of oil | (1,262) | (1,623) |
| Oil and gas sales | 327,867 | 352,956 |
| Marketing revenues | 79,308 | 60,433 |

Oil and gas sales represent the sales of oil and gas, net of royalties and obligations to government and other mineral interest owners. Revenue from the sales of oil and gas is recognised at a point in time when oil and gas has been delivered to the customer, which is when the customer obtains the control of oil and gas, and the Company and its subsidiaries have present right to payment and collection of the consideration is probable.

Marketing revenues principally represent the sales of oil and gas belonging to the foreign partners under the production sharing contracts and revenues from the trading of oil and gas through the Company's subsidiaries, which is recognised at a point in time when oil and gas has been delivered to the customer, which is when the customer obtains the control of oil and gas, and the Company and its subsidiaries have present right to payment and collection of the consideration is probable. The cost of the oil and gas sold is included in "Crude oil and product purchases" in the consolidated statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income.

The payment is typically due within 30 days after the delivery of oil and gas. For contracts where the period between payment and transfer of the associated goods is less than one year, the Company and its subsidiaries apply the practical expedient of not adjusting the transaction price for any significant financing component.

5. SEGMENT INFORMATION

According to Amendments to IAS 12/HKAS 12 Deferred Tax related to Assets and Liabilities arising from a Single Transaction, the Company and its subsidiaries restated the opening balance of principal components of deferred tax.

| – deferred tax liabilities | (10,845) | (10,271) |

As at 31 December 2023, deferred tax liabilities related to undistributed earnings of the Company's overseas subsidiaries have not been provided since the timing of the reversal of the taxable temporary differences can be controlled by the Company and it is probable that the temporary differences would not reverse in the foreseeable future.

As at 31 December 2023, the Company and its subsidiaries had approximately RMB87,130 million (31 December 2022: RMB90,918 million) of carryforward tax losses, predominantly in North America, that would be available to offset against future taxable profits of the subsidiaries in which the tax losses arose. Deferred tax assets in respect of tax losses are recognised only to the extent of the anticipated future taxable profits or reversal of existing taxable temporary differences.

As at 31 December 2023, the Company and its subsidiaries' recognised deferred tax assets on tax losses amounted to RMB70,798 million (31 December 2022: RMB85,445million). The realisability of the deferred tax assets recognised mainly depends on whether sufficient future profits or taxable temporary differences will be available in the future. In case where the actual future taxable profits generated are less than expected, or change in facts and circumstances which result in revision of future taxable profits estimation, the balance of deferred tax assets may be significantly revised.

Included in the current year's additions was an amount of approximately RMB2,840 million (2022: approximately RMB1,991 million) in respect of interest capitalised in property, plant and equipment. Included also in the depreciation charge for the year was an amount of approximately RMB4,034 million (2022: approximately RMB3,444 million) in respect of a depreciation charge on dismantlement cost capitalised in oil and gas properties.

Impairment and provision recognised during the year included the impairment loss to reduce the carrying amount of certain oil and gas properties to the recoverable amount. In 2023, impairment losses of RMB3,357 million related to oil and gas properties in North America were recognised as impairment and provision in profit or loss, caused by the change of reserve assessment and the uncertainty in future development plans.

During the reporting period, the recoverable amount was calculated based on the assets' value in use and was determined at the cash-generating unit level. The Company identifies a field or a group of fields that could generate cash inflows independently as a cash-generating unit. The principal parameters used in determining the recoverable amount of the Company and its subsidiaries' assets include estimates of proved and unproved reserves, future commodity prices that come from the price forecast of respected and independent institutions, combined with internal analysis and judgment of the international market environment, as well as best estimates of drilling and development costs.

The discount rate is derived from the Company's weighted average cost of capital ("WACC") and is adjusted, where applicable, to take into account any specific risks relating to the country where the asset is located as well as the asset specific characteristics, such as specific tax treatments, cash flow profiles and economic life. The discount rate used for value in use calculations was 8% in 2023 after tax. A derived pre-tax discount rate of 9% was used.

For both years, the Company and its subsidiaries lease various FPSO and offices for its operations. Lease contracts are entered into for fixed term of 2 years to 15 years, but may have extension options. Lease terms are negotiated on an individual basis and contain a wide range of different terms and conditions. In determining the lease term and assessing the length of the non-cancellable period, the Company and its subsidiaries apply the definition of a contract and determine the period for which the contract is enforceable.

During the current period, the Company and its subsidiaries recognised right-of-use assets of approximately RMB3,689 million for leases with the CNOOC Group and/or its Associates.

Variable lease payments

Leases of FPSO are either with only fixed lease payments or contain variable lease payment that are based on production volume and minimum annual lease payment that are fixed over the lease term. The fixed and variable lease payments paid to relevant FPSO lessors for the year ended 31 December 2023 amounted to RMB1,147 million and RMB313 million. (2022: RMB1,038 million and RMB357 million.)

The overall financial effect of using variable payment terms is that higher rental costs are incurred by FPSO with higher production volume. Variable rent expenses are expected to continue to represent a similar proportion of production volume in future years.

Total cash outflow for leases in 2023 was RMB3,931 million (2022: RMB3,363 million).

Goodwill represents the excess of the purchase price over the estimated fair value of the assets acquired and liabilities assumed in a business combination. Goodwill acquired through business combinations is held at the E&P segment.

According to the accounting policies as set out in note 3, goodwill is acquired in the acquisition of Nexen Inc., and from the acquisition date, allocated to the entire E&P assets, which are the groups of cash-generating units that are expected to benefit from the synergies of the acquisition.

Impairment is determined by assessing the recoverable amount of the entire E&P assets to which the goodwill relates. Where the recoverable amount of the entire E&P assets is less than the carrying amount of the assets and the goodwill together, an impairment loss on goodwill is recognised.

In assessing value in use of E&P segment, the key assumptions include, but are not limited to, future commodity prices, future production estimates, estimated future capital expenditures, estimated future operating expenses and the discount rate. The discount rate used for value in use is derived from the Company's WACC and is adjusted, where applicable, to take into account any specific risks relating to the country where the asset is located as well as the asset specific characteristics, such as specific tax treatments, cash flow profiles and economic life. However, actual results could differ from those estimates.

The intangible asset regarding the gas processing rights has been amortised upon the commercial production of the liquefied natural gas on a unit-of-production basis over the total proved reserves of the relevant asset. The intangible assets regarding the marketing transportation and storage contracts are amortised on a straight-line basis over the life of the contracts which is less than 20 years. Other identifiable intangible assets are amortised on a straight-line basis over a period ranging from 3 to 5 years.

(ii) Contingencies

As a Chinese Resident Enterprise, the Company may be liable to pay taxes on the deemed interest income for the funding provided to its overseas subsidiaries starting from 1 January 2008. The Company has prepared contemporaneous documentation in accordance with applicable PRC tax laws and regulations and is currently awaiting confirmation from its local tax authority.

The Company and its subsidiaries are subject to tax in numerous jurisdictions around the world. There are audits in progress and items under review. Difference in positions taken by taxation authorities over the interpretation and application of tax laws and regulations may increase the Company and its subsidiaries' tax liability. Management of the Company has assessed the possible future outcome of matters that are currently under dispute. Management of the Company believes that an adequate provision for future tax liability has been included in the consolidated financial statements based on available information.

In addition to the matters mentioned above, the Company or its subsidiaries are dealing with a number of lawsuits and arbitrations that arise in the ordinary course of business. While the results of these legal proceedings cannot be ascertained at this stage, management of the Company believes these proceedings are not expected to have a material effect on the consolidated financial statements.

36. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Fair value of financial instruments

The carrying values of the Company and its subsidiaries' cash and cash equivalents, time deposits with maturity more than three months, trade receivables excluding receivables financing, other current assets, short-term loans and borrowings, trade and accrued payables, and other payables and accrued liabilities approximated to their fair values at the reporting date due to the short maturity of these instruments.

The fair value of the Company and its subsidiaries' long-term bank loans with floating interest rates approximated to the carrying amount as at 31 December 2023 and 2022.

The estimated fair value of the Company and its subsidiaries' long-term guaranteed notes was approximately RMB89,614 million as at 31 December 2023 (31 December 2022: RMB101,266 million), which was determined by reference to the market price as at 31 December 2023.

Fair value hierarchy

The Company and its subsidiaries use the following hierarchy that reflects the significance of the inputs used in making the fair value measurement:

- Level 1: quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities. Active markets are those in which transaction occurs in sufficient frequency and volume to provide pricing information on an on-going basis.
- Level 2: fair value measurements are those derived from inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly. The Company and its subsidiaries obtain information from sources of independent price publications, over-the-counter broker quotes and the fund management's quotations as at the reporting date.
- Level 3: fair value measurements are those derived from valuation techniques that include inputs for the asset or liability that are not based on observable market data (unobservable inputs), or where the observable data does not support the majority of the instruments fair value.

Financial assets classified within Level 3 are primarily made up of Kerogen Energy Fund invested by a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company. Significant unobservable inputs are used by the Company and its subsidiaries to determine the fair value of these financial assets. As observable prices are not available, the fair value of the financial assets is derived by using valuation techniques, mainly including embedded terms of the instrument, bid offer price as well as valuations based on net asset value using the discounted cash-flow of each project or asset, having applied an appropriate risk factor for the stage of development of the project. The significant unobservable in puts used in the fair value measurement include net asset value, price to net asset value.

No amounts have been transferred between the different levels of the fair value hierarchy for the year.

37. CONCENTRATION OF CUSTOMERS

A substantial portion of the Company and its subsidiaries' oil and gas commodities sales to third-party customers is made to a small number of customers on credit. Details of the gross sales to these top five third party customers are as follows:

| | 2023 | 2022 |
|---|--------|--------|
| China Petroleum & Chemical Corporation* | 32,735 | 20,663 |
| Zhejiang Petrochemical Co., Ltd. | 12,320 | 12,496 |

| PetroChina Company Limited* | 11,301 | 4,873 |
| Suncor Energy Inc. | 8,255 | 5,209 |

* These transactions are with other state-owned enterprises.

38. FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT OBJECTIVES AND POLICIES

The Company and its subsidiaries' principal financial instruments comprise bank loans, long-term guaranteed notes, debt investment, equity investments and other financial assets, cash and short-term deposits, etc. The Company and its subsidiaries have various other financial assets and liabilities such as trade receivables, other receivables, trade and accrued payables, which arise directly from its operations.

The Company and its subsidiaries are exposed to credit risk, oil and gas price risk, currency risk, interest rate risk and liquidity risk.

The Company's senior management oversees the management of these risks. The Company's senior management is supported by various departments that advise on financial risks and the appropriate financial risks governance framework for the Company and its subsidiaries. Those departments provide assurance to the Company's senior management that the Company and its subsidiaries' financial risk-taking activities are governed by appropriate policies and procedures and that financial risks are identified, measured and managed in accordance with group policies and group risk appetite.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

31 December 2023

(All amounts expressed in millions of Renminbi unless otherwise stated)

38. FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT OBJECTIVES AND POLICIES (continued)

(i) Credit risk and management assessment

As at 31 December 2023, the carrying amounts of the Company and its subsidiaries' cash and cash equivalents, time deposits with maturity more than three months, trade receivables, other receivables (approximately RMB5,256 million included in other current assets) and debt investment represent the Company and its subsidiaries' maximum exposure to credit risk in relation to its financial assets. The Company and its subsidiaries do not hold any collateral or other credit enhancements to cover its credit risks associated with its financial assets.

In order to minimise the credit risk, the management of the Company and its subsidiaries have delegated a team responsible for determination of credit limits and credit approvals. Before accepting any new counterparties, the Company and its subsidiaries use an internal credit scoring system to assess the potential counterparty's credit quality and define credit limits by counterparty. Limits and scoring attributed to counterparties are reviewed annually. Other monitoring procedures are in place to ensure that follow-up action is taken to recover overdue debts. In addition, the Company and its subsidiaries perform impairment assessment under ECL model upon application of IFRS 9/HKFRS 9 on trade receivables individually or based on provision matrix, and other receivables individually. In this regard, the Directors of the Company consider that the Company and its subsidiaries' credit risk is significantly reduced.

Concentrations of credit risk are managed by counterparty and by geographical region. At 31 December 2023, the Company and its subsidiaries have certain concentrations of credit risk as 2.35% (31 December 2022: 4.07%) and 11.73% (31 December 2022: 8.19%) of the Company and its subsidiaries' trade receivables were due from the Company and its subsidiaries' largest third-party customer and the five largest third-party customers, respectively.

(ii) Oil and gas price risk

Since the Company and its subsidiaries make reference to international oil prices to determine its realised oil price, fluctuations in international oil price would have a significant impact on the Company and its subsidiaries' sales revenue, profit, assets value and cash-flow. In addition, certain of the Company and its subsidiaries' natural gas sales contracts contain price adjustment provisions. Any changes in international oil prices, inflation rate and domestic natural gas pricing policies may result in changes in natural gas prices, which will affect the Company and its subsidiaries' profitability.

(iii) Currency risk

Substantially all of the Company and its subsidiaries' oil and gas sales are denominated in RMB and United States dollars ("US dollars"). Starting from 21 July 2005, China reformed the exchange rate regime by moving into a managed floating exchange rate regime based on market supply and demand with reference to a basket of currencies. RMB would no longer be pegged to the US dollars. From 1 January 2023 to 31 December 2023, RMB has depreciated by approximately 1.67% (2022: depreciated by approximately 8.46%) against the US dollars. At 31 December 2023, approximately 86% (31 December 2022: 69%) of the Company and its subsidiaries' cash and cash equivalents and time deposits with maturity over three months but within one year were denominated in RMB, and the remaining amounts were substantially denominated in US dollars and Hong Kong dollars. The Company and its subsidiaries also have exposures to currencies other than the US dollars, such as Canadian dollars and British Pounds as such exposures are considered insignificant.

Management has assessed the Company and its subsidiaries' exposure to foreign currency risk by using a sensitivity analysis on the change in foreign exchange rate of the US dollars, to which the Company and its subsidiaries are mainly exposed to as at 31 December 2023 and 2022. Based on management's assessment at 31 December 2023, a 5% strengthening/weakening of RMB against US dollars would have increased/decreased the profit for the year of the Company and its subsidiaries by 0.15% (31 December 2022: 0.01%) and the equity of the Company and its subsidiaries by 0.13% (31 December 2022: 0.73%). This analysis has been determined assuming that the change in foreign exchange rates had occurred at the end of the reporting period and had been applied to the foreign currency balances to which the Company and its subsidiaries have significant exposure with all other variables held constant. The analysis is performed on the same basis for 2022.

Senior management is closely monitoring the Company and its subsidiaries' net exposure to foreign currency risk. The depreciation of RMB against the US dollars may have the following impact on the Company and its subsidiaries. On one hand, since the benchmark oil and gas prices are usually in US dollars against RMB, the Company and its subsidiaries' oil and gas sales may increase due to the appreciation of the US dollars against RMB. On the other hand, the appreciation of the US dollars against RMB will also increase the Company and its subsidiaries' costs for imported equipment and materials, most of which are denominated in the US dollars.

(iv) Interest rate risk

The interest rate risk is closely monitored by the Company and its subsidiaries' senior management. As at the end of 2023, the interest rates for 88.76% (2022: 90.34%) of the Company and its subsidiaries' debts were fixed. The weighted average term of the Company and its subsidiaries' debt balance outstanding was approximately 7.97 (2022: 7.73) years. The fixed interest rates can reduce the volatility of finance costs under uncertain environments and the Company and its subsidiaries' exposure to changes in interest rates is not expected to be material.

(v) Liquidity risk

The Company and its subsidiaries manage its liquidity risk by regularly monitoring its liquidity requirements and its compliance with debt covenants to ensure that it maintains sufficient cash and cash equivalents, other financial assets, and adequate time deposits to meet its liquidity requirements in the short and long term. In addition, bank facilities have been put in place for contingency purposes.

The financial liabilities held by the Company and its subsidiaries are analysed according to the maturity period of the undiscounted remaining contractual obligations as follows:

Supplementary Information on Oil and Gas Producing Activities (Unaudited)

31 December 2023

(All amounts expressed in millions of Renminbi unless otherwise stated)

To fully reflect the Company's oil and gas producing activities, the Company makes the following disclosures in accordance with the FASB Accounting Standard Codification 932 "Extractive Activities-Oil and Gas" (the "ASC 932") for the assessment and disclosure of oil and gas reserves in order to provide standardized measures and variations of the estimated proven reserves of oil and gas and the discounted projected future net cash flows of the Company and its equity investors.

(1) Reserve quantity information

Crude oil and natural gas reserve estimates are determined through analysis of geological and engineering data which appear, with reasonable certainty, to be economically producible in the future from known oil and natural gas reservoirs under existing economic and operating conditions. The Company referred to the SEC's final rules on "Modernization of Oil and Gas Reporting", which became effective as of 1 January 2010 to evaluate reserves. We implemented rigorous internal control system that monitors the entire reserves estimation process and certain key metrics.

For the years 2023, 2022 and 2021, approximately 94%, 89% and 74%, respectively, of our total proved reserves were evaluated by us, and the remaining were evaluated by independent third parties.

We established the Reserve Management Committee (the "RMC"), which comprises the general managers of the relevant departments and is led by the Company's management in charge of reserves as the director. The RMC's main responsibilities are to:

- review our reserves policies;
- review our proved reserves and other categories of reserves; and
- select our reserves estimators and auditors.

The RMC follows certain procedures to appoint our internal reserves estimators and reserves auditors, who are required to have undergraduate degrees and at least five years and ten years of experience related to reserves estimation, respectively.

The reserves estimators and auditors are required to be members of a professional society, such as China Petroleum Society (CPS), and are required to take the professional trainings and examinations as required by the professional society or us.

The RMC delegates its daily operation to our Reserves Office. The Reserves Office is mainly responsible for supervising reserves estimates and auditing. It reports to the RMC periodically and is independent from operating divisions such as the exploration, development and production departments. Our Chief Reserve Supervisor has more than 30 years' experience in oil and gas industry.

The Company's net proved reserves consist of its interest in reserves, comprised of a 100% interest in its independent oil and gas properties and its participating interest in the properties covered under the production sharing contracts in the PRC, less (i) an adjustment for the Company's share of royalties payable by the Company to the PRC government and the Company's participating interest in share oil payable to the PRC government under the production sharing contracts, and less (ii) an adjustment for production allocable to foreign partners under the PRC production sharing contracts as reimbursement for exploration expenses attributable to the Company's participating interest, and plus the participating interest in the properties covered under the production sharing contracts in overseas countries, less adjustments, if any, of share oil attributable to the host government and the domestic market obligation.

The Company uses the average, first-day-of-the-month oil price during the 12-month period before the ending date of the period covered by the consolidated financial statements to estimate its proved oil and gas reserves.

The Company determines its net entitlement oil and gas reserves under production sharing contracts using the economic interest method.

(2) Standardised measure of discounted future net cash flows and changes therein

The average of first-day-of-the-month oil price during the 12-month period before the year end were used to estimate annual future production from proved reserves to determine future cash inflows.

Future development costs are estimated based upon constant price assumptions and the assumption of the continuation of existing economic, operating and regulatory conditions. Future income taxes are calculated by applying the year-end statutory rate to estimate future pre-tax cash flows after provision for the tax cost of the oil and natural gas properties based upon existing laws and regulations. The discount was computed by the application of a 10% discount factor to the estimated future net cash flows.

Management believes that this information does not represent the fair market value of the oil and natural gas reserves or the present value of estimated future cash flows since no economic value is attributed to potential reserves, the use of a 10% discount rate is arbitrary, and prices change constantly.

Present value of estimated future net cash flows:

(1) Future cash flows consist of the Company's 100% interest in the independent oil and gas properties and the Company's participating interest in the properties under the production sharing contracts in the PRC, less (i) an adjustment for the royalties payable to the PRC government and the Company's participating interest in share oil payable to the PRC government under the production sharing contracts, and less (ii) an adjustment for production allocable to foreign partners under the PRC production sharing contracts as reimbursement for exploration expenses attributable to the Company's participating interest, and plus the participating interest in the properties covered under the production sharing contracts in oversea countries, less adjustments, if any, of share oil attributable to the host government and the domestic market obligation.

(2) Future development costs include the estimated costs of drilling future development wells and building the production platforms.

(3) Future net cash flows have been prepared taking into consideration estimated future dismantlement costs of dismantling offshore oil platforms and gas properties.
